

BRITAIN TO ACCEPT "IN PRINCIPLE, WITH MODIFICATIONS" U. S. PLANS

HARDING EULOGIZES THE NATION'S INHERITANCES FROM WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, D. C., November 14.—Speaking today at the exercises attending the laying of the corner stone for the new Victory Memorial, President Harding dedicated the structure as "a gathering place for Americans, where American minds begin the fulfillment of one of the striking provisions of the last will of George Washington, which set aside a bequest for the founding of an institution to disseminate learning, culture and a proper understanding of right principles in government."

The president's address was given largely to an analysis of the less well known attributes of the first president, which, he said, made Washington "on his private and personal side a very model of good citizenship."

"It is an impressive fact," Mr. Harding said, "worthy of our special thought, that in the century and a half since Washington became the leader, the heart and soul of its struggle for independence and unity, this nation has so many times found occasion to record devotion to the precepts which he laid down for its guidance. So today, after more than a century's delay, we are come to pay tribute to the foresight which first encouraged and endowed the institution here established—an institution which is to be alike a monument to those who sacrificed in a noble cause and a beacon to shed after the light of useful knowledge and grateful understanding among men."

Pays Tribute to Personal Side

"It has seemed to me that our studies of Washington have been too much from those public sides from which we view him as the military chief, the inspired leader of the colonies, the statesman and gentle in constitution-making times, the welding force which hammered fragments of communities into a great nation, as the first president and as the author of that body of domestic and foreign policies which he bequeathed in his farewell address."

"I may be said that if on the one side Washington was the great personal force that welded apart the two chief branches of the English speaking race, he was on the other the greatest personal factor in saving this continent from Anglo-Saxon domination; and in doing that he contributed very greatly to making possible the wide-throated family of English speaking nations. It is equally true that two decades earlier he had saved them from the possible domination of France. I am sure that today our faithful friends and trusted allies of France and England alike would agree that in both cases, viewed in the light of subsequent events, he served mankind well."

"But among the documents which attest his wisdom there is one to which little study has been given. I mean his last will and testament. On an occasion such as this we are to-day, it is not inappropriate to direct attention for a few moments to this remarkable instrument."

Great In Many Ways

"Washington was not only a great soldier and a great statesman. He was also a man of great business affairs, President and always methodical, he amassed a fortune which has been rated by many as the greatest of his time in all the country. But plainly it was not his belief that society is best served by the transmission from generation to generation of such imposing aggregates of wealth. Therefore his will after devising minor and largely sentimental bequests to many relatives"

'Yankee' Is New U. D. C. Head

MRS. LIVINGSTON ROWE SCHUYLER

By NEA Service
S. T. LOUIS.—The United Daughters of the Confederacy have named a "Yankee" as president-general. And elected her by acclamation!

But she's only a Yankee by residence and not by birth.

She's Mrs. Livingston Rowe Schuyler of New York. Her father was Colonel St. George Thomas of Florida, who commanded a Confederate regiment and served in the Confederate Congress.

Mrs. Schuyler's been active in the United Daughters of the Confederacy 17 years. She was president of the New York division last year.

"BIG TIM" MURPHY SENTENCED

CHICAGO, November 14.—"Big Tim" Murphy, former state representative, gang leader and president of the Gas Workers and Street Sweepers' Union, was sentenced to six years in Leavenworth penitentiary and fined $300,000 by Judge K. M. Landis today for his part in planning the $300,000 Dearborn Station mail robbery here last April.

Vincenzo Cosmano, Lieutenant Murphy and Edward Geirman, alleged driver of the mail hauler's automobile, were each sentenced to four years and fined $20,000, and Paul Volanti, in whose grocery store four stolen $1 bills were found, was sentenced to two years and fined $10,000.

Several more persons, including Murphy's father-in-law, William Diggs, formerly of Washington, D. C., are awaiting trial in connection with the case. More than $200,000 of the loot was recovered in a trunk hidden in Diggs' attic.

The mail robbery was one of the boldest executed in Chicago in years. The hauler drove up to the depot early in the afternoon, parked their car and proceeded to play baseball in a vacant lot opposite the mail loading platform for three hours before the truck carrying a shipment of registered mail arrived.

Ralph Teter, a government mail clerk, who turned state's evidence, and is awaiting trial, testified at the trial of Murphy and the other three that he watched for the truck and when it arrived lifted his hat as a signal to Murphy, sitting in a nearby automobile, and that Murphy passed the same signal on to the ball players, who dropped their gloves and hats and threw rocks. Teter and another of the alleged robbers, who also confessed, claimed the robbery was planned in Indianaapolis, and that Murphy first proposed sharing it there, but later changed his plans because he was not so familiar with the town.

LAY CORNER STONE OF NEW VICTORY MEMORIAL

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Secretary Weeks, using a gavel made of wood taken from the White House when it was rebuilt more than 100 years ago, officiated today at the laying of the corner-stone for the new victory memorial here. The structure is to be erected on a plot a few blocks from the capitol, which was given by congress for the purpose. Its final cost, according to estimates, will be $10,000,000, of which more than $1,000,000 already has been raised. Speakers of the occasion were President Harding, General Pershing and Admiral Cootz, chief of naval operations. Bishop Alfred Harding pronounced the invocation and the Right Rev. C. F. Thomas the benediction. A number of visiting diplomats, as well as delegations among those on duty here, and officials of the government were present.

Arbuckle On Trial For Manslaughter

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., November 14.—Roscoe C. (Burr) Arbuckle, motion picture comedian, went on trial today on a charge of manslaughter, growing out of the death of Miss Virginia Rappe, motion picture actress, September 9. Scores of witnesses on both sides awaited the call to the stand.

The crowds began to surge early through the narrow corridors on the third floor of the Hall of Justice, where the trial court is located. Despite the fact that the admissions were limited to approximately 300, which included more than a score of newspaper men, hundreds picked points of vantage to glimpse the principals in the big legal drama as they went into the court room.

For more than a week the contending sides have had their decks stripped for action, and the eagerness with which they collected all possible evidence indicates a hard and bitter contest. The trial was to have started last Monday, but a local election and Armistice Day so broke up the week that a postponement until today was granted.

In the two months that have elapsed since the commission of the alleged criminal act by Arbuckle, the defendant has been in prison for several days, has had a preliminary hearing on a charge of murder, which was reduced to the manslaughter charge on which he went to trial today, and has been made the defendant in a federal action charging the possession of liquor illegally. The federal charge remains to be tried and will presumably await the action in the state court.

Steamship On Fire At Sea

NEW YORK, November 14.—The steamship San Francisco, Marcellus for New York, which caught fire yesterday about 1,000 miles southeast of New York, was heading toward Bermuda today, radio messages from the ship said.

The fire was spreading. It started in the cross bunkers and crept to Number 2 hold. The steamship Ramon O'Larrinaga was standing by.

Marines Have Orders To Shoot To Kill

CINCINNATI, O., Nov. 14.—Under specific orders to shoot to kill if it becomes necessary, 75 marines from the Quantico, Virginia, training station of the United States marine corps arrived in Cincinnati last night to begin their task of guarding United States mail trucks and registered mail from landit and to prevent a repetition of the recent mail truck robberies which have taken place in various parts of the country.

The marines are under command of Captain R. M. Montague, and are to report today to the post office authorities for assignment to duty.

"They are to relieve former service men who were assigned the task of guarding the mails a few days ago."

WAR "FRAME-UP" IS SEEN

U. S. LAYS CARDS ON TABLE FACE UP; BOLD STROKE GIVES POWERS SURPRISE

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyrighted 1921 By The Times Publishing Company)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—The United States laid its cards upon the table face up. In the first public session Secretary Hughes, head of the American delegation, surprised everybody by announcing the American proposal for the limitation of armaments. These principles were advocated:

"1.—That all capital shipbuilding programs, either actual or projected, should be abandoned.

"2.—That further reduction should be made through the scrapping of certain older ships.

"3.—That in general, regard should be had to the existing naval strength of the powers concerned.

"4.—That the capital ship tonnage should be used as a measurement of strength for navies and a proportionate allowance of auxiliary combatant craft prescribed."

"Then followed technical details of the building program of the United States, Great Britain and Japan with suggestions as to exactly what vessels should be scrapped.

A Bold Stroke

It was a bold and unexpected stroke in the part of American delegation and fairly took the breath away from the visiting delegates who have been accustomed to secret conferences before anything so concrete is made known. Realizing, however, that public opinion is America's greatest pillar of strength in bringing the conference to a successful end, Mr. Hughes took the entire world into his confidence and showed how far America was willing to go to achieve a reduction in tax burdens. It was this paragraph in Mr. Hughes' address which indicated the extreme to which the United States is willing to go:

"The United States now is completing its program of 1916 calling for ten new battleships and six battle cruisers. One battleship has been completed. The others are in various stages of construction; in some cases from sixty to over 80 per cent of the construction has been done. On these 15 capital ships now being built over $250,000,000 have been spent. Still the United States is willing, in the interest of an immediate limitation of armament, to scrap all these ships."

All Must Agree

Mr. Hughes pointed out that the United States would not reduce armament unless the other nations agreed, but if the plan were accepted, fully thirty capital ships aggregating $45,740 tons would be scrapped.

Mr. Hughes suggested in his plan

GARMENT WORKERS GO OUT ON STRIKE

NEW YORK, November 14.—Thousands of garment workers went out on strike this morning in protest against the piece work system and increase from 41 to 49 hours a week, which was to be put into effect today by their employers. Indications were that the struggle might be prolonged. The International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union and 3,000 shops were involved. All efforts at arbitration have failed.

Louis Lustig, president of the Cloak, Suit and Skirt Manufacturers' Protective Association, charged that the union workers failed to add the employers in their efforts to increase production and thus lower the price of women's clothing. The strikers charged the employers with violating a trade agreement, which left the question of working conditions to a bipartisan commission, which was to have reported November 1. The piece work system means a return of the "sweat shop" they declare.

Israel Feinberg, strike manager of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, said that most of the 60,000 workers had quit. The Cloak, Suit and Skirt Manufacturers' Association, issued a statement declaring that sixty per cent of the workers had refused to join the walkout.

Picketing of the hundreds of shops in the city will begin tomorrow.

Foch Guest Of Boston

BOSTON, Nov. 14.—Marshal Foch was today the guest of Greater Boston. The program prepared for his entertainment started with the presentation of a gold medal by Governor Cox and a key to the city by Mayor Peters. Chief among other functions arranged in his honor were the conferring of honorary degrees by Harvard and Boston universities and Boston college, and a parade of former service men and women.

U. S. Officials Alarmed by Agents That Keep Jap Hokey Alive

BY WIL PHILIP SIMMS
Written Expressly for the NEA

WASHINGTON, D. C., November 14.—Is the United States being "framed" for a war with Japan? To the capitals of the Orient and of Europe, in one form or another, this question has been mooted in the privacy of diplomatic circles and among competent observers for months.

In Japan, the highly dangerous, but now popular, myth of a hostile America standing alone in Nippon's road to empire, is being kept alive through some mysterious agency, while elsewhere in the world sinister influences are at work rapidly pushing the two countries into a war which neither wants.

Frankly puzzled, officials here are not a little alarmed. They want to know:

ONE. Why is it that though the United States has consistently claimed loss in China than any other great power, that country, in a world-wide propaganda, is described as the only enemy of Japan?

TWO. Why after twenty odd years of scrupulous observance of the open door doctrine, which doctrine was endorsed by all civilized nations, should the United States be singled out as blocking Japan's way to expansion in Asia?

THREE. Why should Japan—and others—make a case out of almost the immigration question in California, when Australia and other parts of Great Britain openly proclaim their "white man's country," and also bar the Japanese immigrant?

FOUR. What did Frederick Moore, ambassador to the Japanese embassy here, mean when he said, apropos of Japan's uneasiness over the calling of the Pacific conference: "Many Japanese thought that an equitable consideration of their position was perhaps unobtainable. KNOWING THAT IT WAS TO THE INTERESTS OF CERTAIN NATIONS TO KEEP ALIVE THE HOSTILITY BETWEEN THE UNITED STATES AND JAPAN."

(The writer's capitals.)

Is U. S. "Framed"?

Administration officials point out that President Harding's foreign policy, like that of his predecessors, is really a policy of the golden rule; that this country demands absolutely nothing more than an equal show with the rest and to live, and let live, in peace.

Why, therefore, they ask, should Japan and propagandists outside Japan—keep prodding the Japanese public with the goading idea that the Imperialistic Yankees alone stand in their way?

Is Frederick Moore right? What nations are interested in "keeping alive" the hostility between the United States and Japan?

Are America and Japan, both, being "framed"?

JUGO-SLAVIA REJECTS BOUNDARY DECISION

BEIGRADE, Nov. 14.—(By the Associated Press)—Jugo-Slavia can not accept the decision of the allied council of ambassadors defining the boundary line between Jugo-Slavia and Albania, the cabinet decided at a meeting last night. A note to this effect will be sent to the allies.

It is stated in official circles here that the Jugo-Slav troops have not advanced beyond the legitimate boundaries of Serbia. The council of ambassadors recently sent a note to the Jugo-Slav government, demanding its immediate withdrawal of its troops from the territory within the limits previously defined by the council.

The newspapers are unanimous in declaring the council's decision unjust, and urge strong opposition to a further meeting or consultation on the subject. Thirty thousand troops are believed to be advancing toward the Serbian border.

Armament

Shares Decline

LONDON, November 14.—Armament shares on the stock exchange showed declines in today's trading, attributed to the proposals of Secretary of State Hughes at the armament conference in Washington. The whole list of such shares was marked down in anticipation of selling, which, however, had not appeared in any force up to the noon hour.

HELD FOR STEALING MONEY

CLEVELAND, Nov. 14.—A woman giving the name of Mary Turney, 21 years of age, is under arrest here charged with stealing $5,686 from a moving picture theater at which she was ticket-seller. In the woman's room, police say, they recovered $2,181. Police say she confessed to taking the money.

DIES AT AGE OF 101

DEFIANCE, O., Nov. 14.—Francis Ferdinand Mokus, Defiance county pioneer, who on August 3, celebrated his 100th birthday, died Sunday at his home, six miles north of Defiance, having lived 101 days of his 101st year.

A strong feeling is growing up here that the American delegates, to the arms of conference must find the answer to this very ticklish situation.

ENGLISH WANT NAVAL HOLIDAY MODIFIED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—(By the A. P.)—Britain's acceptance "in principle" of the American proposals for limitation of naval armament as it will be laid before the conference tomorrow will be based on what are described as "certain definite modifications."

Considered most important among the British is a modification in the program for replacement. Instead of a full ten year holiday, during which no new ships shall be built, the British have in mind that the replacement program be carried on from year to year and thus keep the ship yards from going to rest, or allow each country one ship-building plant.

The figure of ninety thousand tons of submarines fixed by the American proposals, Great Britain's naval experts consider too high as the British navy never possessed that tonnage of submarines.

It is said that Great Britain may even propose the abolition of submarines, and if she does not go that far will work for limitation of their size and armament.

The British argument is that if a flat holiday of ten years goes into effect, the organizations for shipbuilding will have to be maintained now, the less at present expense to take up the replacement program at the end of the ten years' holiday.

The British viewpoint is that while armaments themselves are being reduced, there should also be a strict reduction in armament plants, but that facilities for carrying on a small replacement program should remain in a state of reasonable efficiency.

The British would like to see the replacement program made more elastic and spread over a term of years.

The British experts feel that the limitations for airplane carriers give the United States some advantage, because the British already have a number which will become obsolete, while the United States will build new ones of a superior character.

Great Britain's acceptance in "principle" of the American proposals for limitation of naval armament was definitely forecast today in a statement on behalf of the British delegation.

Japan's acceptance "in principle" at least has been forecast by statements by Admiral Baron Kato and others of the Japanese delegation.

It was announced for the British delegation that at tomorrow's session of the arms conference Mr. Balfour will make a speech accepting "in principle" the American proposals.

Great Britain's principal consideration, it is understood, in framing the reply which Mr. Balfour will make to

CHAMBLIN SENTENCED TO THE ELECTRIC CHAIR

Date Of Execution Is Set For February 24; Murderer Shows But Little Emotion; Mother Attempts Suicide

Roy Chamblin, aged 27, self confessed murderer of John W. Newman and Miss Louise Doyle, must pay the extreme penalty, death.

In common pleas court this afternoon, Chamblin was sentenced to be electrocuted in the Ohio Penitentiary between the hours of 12 P. M. and 6 A. M. on the morning of February 24. When these momentous words fell from the lips of Judge James S. Thomas, Chamblin stood before the court, apparently showing no emotion whatsoever.

As he sat down he turned to one of his attorneys, F. A. Shively of West Union, and in a clear, strong voice said, "Well Frank, I guess it is all over."

Then Chamblin asked where was his mother, Mrs. Eva Easter Paris. He was told that before sentence was passed, she had fainted and had to be carried from the courtroom.

As a matter of fact, when she was told that her son had been sentenced to die she made an attempt to leap from a window in the grand jury room.

"I cannot stand this, I must die. If you won't let me die now I will later on. I will not be alive when they take Roy's life," she screamed at the top of her voice, her agonizing screams piercing the walls of many of the rooms in the court house. "This is terrible. I will end it all as soon as I get a chance."

Relatives Prevented Suicide
Her brother, Mr. Easter, of the West Side and Mrs. Easter were near Mrs. Paris when she tried to leap out of the window. They threw their arms around her, but it was all they could do to keep her from jumping out of the room. Later on she calmed down, but wept bitterly and said that with her son going to the chair she had nothing to live for.

When Chamblin was sentenced, Mrs. John W. Newman, wife of the slain man, sat only five or six feet away from the murderer. She broke into tears when the sentence was passed and friends assisted her from the court room. Relatives of Miss Doyle were also present and evinced much interest in all phases of the trial.

When Chamblin was taken back to the jail he was placed in private cell No. 31. He walked over to his bunk, sat down and lit a cigarette. His face seemed to be a blank. He stared apparently into empty space. He would put his cigarette down only to pick it up again and take a soothing puff. Then he crossed his legs and buried his hands in his face. His frail body trembled with emotion.

When taken from the court room to the jail Chamblin walked with a steady step and eyed those who gazed at him. The crowd was so dense that Sheriff Rieker had to elbow his way through with Chamblin. There was four times. "Why we are going to Portsmouth," the officers told Roy. "What has happened up there?" the gun user asked the officers several times. Sheriff Rieker said that it was not until Chamblin has been locked up three hours that he began to moan and of his own accord admitted having killed Newman and Miss Doyle. "We did not offer or promise any leniency and did not force or induce Chamblin to say one word," he said. He killed the couple, then drove the man's machine around to the Galena Pike and abandoned it because the man's supply had run out. He then said how he came to the city, tossed his gun into the Ohio river while crossing it and how he visited relatives in and around West Union and Manchester a week before going to Cincinnati.

"For several days Roy would not admit taking any of Newman's money or his watch. Finally he broke down and told us he took $18 from the man and $3 from the girl. He told us where he tossed their pocketbooks on the West Side near Dry Run and we recovered them there," the sheriff testified.

"Roy also admitted that the bloody overalls he had on that night were left at Ora Easter's home on the West Side. When these were taken to Chamblin he at first said they were not his, but later he admitted they were and he identified fishing tackle he had in one of the pockets.

The sheriff denied any third degree had been used upon Chamblin and said he confessed freely and voluntarily that he was glad he had, and that he felt better for having done so. "Why I could have been in Mexico or Canada if I wanted to," Chamblin said after being arrested. "I had no fears of being arrested," he told the arresting officers.

When asked on the stand this morning if he had ever been arrested before he replied, "Yes, once in Chillicothe and once in Washington and for train riding in each case."

Times Man Called
Wiley Kates, court reporter for The Times was called and he told how Chamblin of his own free will related every move he made from the time he left his home on the night of the shooting until he was arrested in Cincinnati. He told his story before two other newspaper men, Sheriff Rieker and Municipal Judge Sprague. Roy smoked several cigarettes and did not seem concerned over this act. Kates testified.

Detective Einspinner
Special Officer L. B. Einspinner when called to the stand told how Chamblin was arrested at the home of a relative in Cincinnati on Saturday, November 5. "Then Sheriff Rieker and I placed Roy on the early N. & W. train and brought him to Portsmouth at 6:30 on the evening of November 5. Several times he asked us where we were taking him, once the Sheriff replied, "Why, Roy, we are taking you to Portsmouth."

"Is that so. What has happened up around there?" Chamblin asked. "Oh nothing in particular. We arrested you on a gun today charge," the sheriff replied. "What gun today charge?" Chamblin asked us three or four times. "Why we are going to Portsmouth," the officers told Roy. "What has happened up there?" the gun user asked the officers several times. Sheriff Rieker said that it was not until Chamblin has been locked up three hours that he began to moan and of his own accord admitted having killed Newman and Miss Doyle.

"We did not offer or promise any leniency and did not force or induce Chamblin to say one word," he said. He killed the couple, then drove the man's machine around to the Galena Pike and abandoned it because the man's supply had run out. He then said how he came to the city, tossed his gun into the Ohio river while crossing it and how he visited relatives in and around West Union and Manchester a week before going to Cincinnati.

BEN HURS WILL CELEBRATE THIS EVENING

Tonight Portsmouth Court Tribe of Ben Hur will celebrate their twenty-first anniversary of the founding of the lodge court. Several prominent officers from out of the city will be here to make talks. Acting Chief William Hinkelbaker will preside over this big meeting in the absence of Chief Charles Spratt. A large class of candidates will be taken through the mysteries of the order tonight. A banquet will bring to a close what is expected to be one of the best sessions of the year.

Dr. J. W. Daehler
Dr. J. W. Daehler was then called. He testified that Miss Doyle was shot between the third and fourth ribs on the left side. "I was present at the postmortem examination and the bullet passed through the woman's heart, both lungs and we found it on the left side."

When asked how long Miss Doyle lived after being shot Dr. Daehler said, "Her death must have been instantaneous."

Gus Doyle Called
Gus Doyle, aged 20, and a brother of Louise Doyle was called to the witness stand. He testified that the last time he saw Louise alive was at home on the night of October 21.

"What time was that?" Prosecuting Attorney asked.

"It was about 6:30. I left at that time and I was told Louise left home at 7 o'clock."

"Where did you first see your sister dead?"

"At Daehler's morgue after they had taken her body there. I identified the victim as my sister."

"Where was she shot?"

"In the left side towards the heart."

I easily recognized her by the clothing she had on."

Gun User on Stand
After surveying the packed courtroom with apparent indifference and smiling at his mother, who sat near him with other relatives, Roy Chamblin, self confessed murderer of John W. Newman, aged 26 and Miss Louise Doyle, aged 18, told in detail just what occurred before and after the shooting. He corroborated every statement he had made to officials and newspaper men. He said:

"On the night of Friday, October 21, I left Ora Easter's home and walked down to the Scioto river. There I secured my boat and rowed across. Then I walked to the Trail and started for Sherman Wilson's home in Houston Hollow. To get there I passed the cottage where the dead bodies were found. By doing this you can save time. When I reached the cottage I saw the body of a man pass the cottage. I decided to investigate. I walked up to the front porch and entered through the front door. I opened the door and as I stepped in the man threw a brick at me. Then I pulled my gun and began to use it. He fled into the chambers and I used it on him."

When asked how much time was consumed in the shooting, Chamblin, in a clear steady voice said: "Oh, about 10 or 15 seconds. I did not feel away any time."

"After the shooting I struck a match and saw the bodies lying on the floor. Then I reached over and took the man's watch and chain and his billfold which contained $18."

"Then I walked as rapidly as I could to the man's machine on the Trail and about 100 yards from the cottage. I climbed into it and drove around by way of Lucasville. After I reached the Galena Pike and near Ora Easter's home I had to give up the car. The gasoline supply ran out. Before leaving I took $3 from the woman's purse, which had been left in the car. Then I went to Easter's home and went to bed. I left the next morning at 8 o'clock for Manchester. When I reached the ferryboat I started across the river. When I reached the ferryboat I started across the river."

"I lost my gun when I was in the stream. Chamblin then told how he visited his mother in Manchester, how long he spent in and around West Union and when he boarded a freight train at Concord for Cincinnati.

He said he knew the detectives were after him those hours before he was arrested. "Why I could have been away, but there was no use so I decided to stay and face the music."

When Chamblin was asked what he had done with Newman's watch he said he had pawned it for $2 at a pawnshop on Sixth street, Cincinnati. The watch was recovered by Detective Einspinner and when it was brought to the jail Chamblin admitted it was the one he had taken off Newman's body and had pawned for $3.

"Isn't it a fact you have made a practice of holding up couples along the Scioto Trail?" the court asked the prisoner.

"No sir, that is not true. I have never held up any one."

"How many states did you say you had been in?" the court asked Chamblin.

"Why I have been in 27 different states," the prisoner replied.

"Do you mean to tell me you would in all of them as a thug?" the court asked Chamblin.

"Yes, I am a thug by trade, but I did not work in all these states. I guess I have ridden 500,000 miles on freight trains."

When asked if he had held up any couples on the West Side Chamblin said he had not. He denied shooting Miss Doyle and Newman at close range. He said he guessed he was eight or ten feet from the couple when he began to "cut down on them."

He said he guessed he had told several people that he killed the girl so her body would be sealed against him. He says he was nervous and excited when arrested and made many statements. He did not enter a general denial to his statement made in front of Judge Sprague, Sheriff Rieker and other newspapermen.

When Judge Thomas asked Chamblin if he had asked to enter the Boys' Industrial Home he said the Judge in Adams county asked if he would enter it and he said yes.

TILE AND MANTEL TRUST ENTERS PLEA OF GUILTY

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Seventy corporations and individuals composing what is known as the tile and mantel combine, today entered pleas of guilty to violation of the Sherman anti-trust law in federal court. They were indicted last August as the result of an investigation into the building trades industry by the Lockwood legislative committee.

Britain To Accept

morrow, has been the question of what was to be done to bring France and Italy within the scope of the plan for delimitations. The American delegates, it is understood, impressed their British colleagues with the advisability of first disposing of the question as it affects the three principal—the United States, Great Britain and Japan.

Great Britain's acceptance of the general plan and Japan's sympathetic attitude were openly forecast Saturday after the delivery of Secretary Hughes' remarkable plan, but it remained for a spokesman, speaking for Arthur Balfour, head of the British delegation, to give official outline of the coming developments.

Mr. Balfour, it was announced, will address the second plenary session of the conference tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock. It was announced, and at that time bespeaks Great Britain's adherence to the fundamentals of the proposal laid down in behalf of the American delegation by Secretary Hughes.

What might be proposed as a modification or in the nature of counter proposals for some features of the American plan was not disclosed today. The impression prevailed, however, that they might be in the main matters of detail not difficult of assimilation with the cardinal points of the American program.

"Acceptance in principle" is a diplomatic phrase, which, while marking an important mile post in an international negotiation, does not by any means assure its conclusion in original form.

Acceptance in principle in this case is taken by observers to mean that Great Britain will not close her acceptance finally until the conference has proceeded to conclusions in the cases of France and Italy, and it may indeed be further conditioned upon the development of the discussion of Far Eastern affairs. Great Britain's acceptance in principle, however, is regarded as a long step toward the success of the conference along the lines laid down by the American delegation.

One of the points on which the British may feel some need for reservation, it is said, on the question of submarine tonnage. They may ask to have it fixed lower than proposed by Secretary Hughes. Another question is that of a means to preserve the efficiency and organization of ship yards during a holiday of ten years.

"Why did you do this?" the court asked.

"I had no home and needed an education," Chamblin said he had never before seen Newman or Miss Doyle and could not identify them if they were living. He said he had not been around the death cottage although he knew it was vacant two weeks. He says he had intended driving Newman's car to the city if the gasoline supply had not given out.

Chamblin admitted that he frequently ran into many people on the Trail as he made two trips each week to Wilson's home in Houston Hollow. He says that he did not believe that Miss Doyle or Newman uttered a word before the shooting. He frequently got out around in the packed courtroom and did not seem worried. He answered all questions promptly and in a perfectly adequate voice. The prisoner wore the same blue suit and cap and brown sweater as when arrested.

COMPARE YOUR OWN METHODS TO THE METHODS OF OTHERS

Life is competitive.

If nearly everybody spent all he earned the penalty for lack of thrift would not be quite so personal as it is today.

Nowadays, most people are saving a fair proportion of their earnings.

The man who doesn't save is in a bad way.

His will be a stony path when actual want comes.

He won't progress, for the people with money saved will carry away all the real opportunities in life.

Meet today's issue by regular saving. Our institution will gladly serve you.

RABBIT SEASON WILL OPEN TUESDAY

The season for hunting rabbits opens Tuesday and many local hunters are preparing to take to the fields early tomorrow morning in pursuit of the elusive animal.

Rabbits are reported plentiful throughout all sections of Southern Ohio, particularly in Adams county, where an army of hunters will journey to participate in the annual assault on the little animals.

The open season for hunting rabbits extends from Nov. 15 to Jan. 1, both inclusive, and a person may take in one day and have in his possession at one time, not more than ten rabbits which may be hunted only from one hour before sunrise to one hour after sunset. It is unlawful to hunt rabbits through the use of a ferret, and each rabbit caught through this method constitutes a separate offense under the law.

If you want to insure your car, or property of any kind, we would be pleased to do it for you. Office open evenings from 6 to 9 o'clock.

Trains Will Run Every Day In The Week

ASHLAND, Nov. 14. — Passenger trains numbers fifty-three and fifty-four, operating between Pikeville and Elkhorn City, will run every day in the week including Sunday. The change was announced here today by Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad officials.

The rearranged schedule is effective immediately and means a great deal to Big Sandy as traffic will not be delayed over Sunday. The change was made on the request of the coal operators of the Big Sandy valley who use the two trains a great deal.

Special C. & O. Agent Resigns

The Ashland Independent Sunday

said: H. A. Humphrey, special agent for the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad on the Cincinnati and Lexington divisions with headquarters in Ashland has tendered his resignation to take effect November 15. It was learned today by the Independent from C. & O. officials.

Mr. Humphrey has made Ashland his home for several months ever since he replaced L. Y. Johnson as special agent. He is a member of the Kiwanis club here and is well known. He will be succeeded by T. S. Stewart who has been assistant special agent at Lexington for several years, serving under both Humphrey and Johnson. He will assume his duties here Tuesday.

T. B. Payne, who recently resigned as chief of the Ashland police department, will succeed Stewart as assistant special agent at Lexington, and will work under Stewart.

Woman Would Beat The Air With Hands

"Ever since I saw with my own eyes what Tanke did for my wife I have been a firm believer in it," said Max Roseman, 731 Edgewood Ave., Akron, O., proprietor of a motor transfer business.

"My wife had an unusually stubborn case of stomach trouble and I have seen her have such awful attacks of indigestion that she would beat the air with her hands trying to get her breath. Her nerves gave way, too, and sometimes she would tremble like a leaf."

"She is like a different woman now. She has a splendid appetite and everything agrees with her perfectly. Her nerves are calm, she sleeps like a child every night and gets up in the morning bright and cheerful. It is simply wonderful what Tanke has done for her."

Tanke is sold in Portsmouth by the Fisher & Stretch Pharmacy and by leading druggists everywhere.

Deputy Game Wardens P. B. Voocles and M. A. Charlton have returned from a week's stay in Lawrence county. They made eleven arrests there and the violators were fined from $25 to $50 in Squire Bowman's court at Proctorville. They were guilty of killing quail, rabbits and with hunting without a license.

W. B. Seaton Is Stricken

The Ashland Independent Sunday

said: W. B. Seaton, president of the Ashland Iron & Mining Company and the Ashland Coal & Iron Railway and the Ashland Firebrick Company, was stricken suddenly with a slight attack of paralysis at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon while playing golf at the Country Club. He was taken to his home on Bath Ave. It was reported that he was resting very well late last night.

The attack struck Mr. Seaton when he was at the sixth hole on the golf course and although he was able to walk he was escorted home by Leo Mahan, John Seaton, S. C. Peebles and A. J. McCullough.

FIRST PORTSMOUTH SHOWING OF SCREEN VERSION OF FAMOUS IBANEZ NOVEL

Great interest is being displayed by local theatre-goers in the attraction opening a week's engagement at the Columbia Theatre today.

It will be Portsmouth's first view of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," adapted for the screen by Rex Ingram from Vincente Blasco Ibanez' famous novel.

The film, called by critics far and wide the most stupendous photo-play production in motion picture industry, has experienced long runs in all the larger cities in the country. It is expected to break all records here.

The Four Horsemen also will serve to introduce to local movie fans Rudolph Valentino, the young Italian dancer who plays the role of Julio, the romantic South American hero of the tale.

Valentino, unknown in films before the release of this picture, reached unexpected heights in his delineation of the colorful role, and since has been featured in another Ingram production, and is the Armad of Nazimova's screen "Camille."

Miss Alice Terry, cast as Marguerite also found herself famous when reviews of the production were published in newspapers and magazines.

"The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" boasts of a most brilliant array of stars such as Edward Connelly, Mabel Van Buren, Virginia Warwick, Stuart Holmes, Nigel de Bruiler, Pomeroy Cannon, John Sainpolis, Mile. Dolores, Allan Hale, Wallace Berry, Brodwith (Smoke) Turner, Henry Klans, "Bull" Montana, and others equally as famous, both on the stage and screen.

Among the musical numbers that you will hear and may want to remember are:

Dr. Jackson Made Talk

At the semi-annual Chillicothe Methodist District Conference held at the Walnut Street church last city, Friday and Saturday, Rev. John Collins Jackson, pastor of Terminalis M. Gun User Is Awaiting Trial

Jerry Sias, 35, of Catlettsburg is in the Lawrence county jail at fronton today awaiting a preliminary hearing on a charge of shooting and killing Arthur Lakki, 35, of Catlettsburg, a week ago last night on a shanty boat near the Ohio side of the river just below the N. & W. bridge. He was arrested several hours after the crime and lodged in the county jail at Catlettsburg but was removed to fronton late Friday evening after he had sufficiently recovered from a beating inflicted by George Lakki, a brother of the dead man, and Kinney Frazier who were on the boat at the time of the shooting.

Lakki's body was found in a drifting skiff several miles below Greenup. He had died it was believed after he had attempted to row across the river for medical attention for his bullet wound.

ARMS MEET OPENING QUITE CONTRAST TO OPENING OF PEACE PARLEY IN PARIS

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Without a tremor of excitement, without frills or turbulences, the greatest international conference ever held in America has opened.

The calm and quiet of Continental hall, beautifully decorated, was a remarkable contrast to the opening of the peace conference at Paris. There was no hurry and bustle, no crowded corridors, no atmosphere of intense war, hate—America's meeting moved with well-defined precision. The delegates took their seats ahead of time, greeting each other cordially and with a friendliness borne of many contacts in the past.

Harding Most Conspicuous Figure
President Harding was the most conspicuous figure of the day. The delegates listened most attentively to his address, delivered as it was with studied emphasis and earnest appeal. Mr. Harding's manner was that of a petitioner. Not a note of defiance, not a phrase of compulsion was in his speech. It was a prayer for "less preparation for war and more enjoyment of peace."

The galleries broke into applause again and again as the president drove home the points of his address. It was when the president reached this paragraph that he received a great demonstration:

"I can speak officially only for the United States. One hundred millions frankly want less of armament and none of war."

Hardly more than 1,500 persons saw the opening session—members of Congress, diplomats and their friends as Continental Hall does not accommodate much more, as many of the seats had been taken out to provide room for the delegates.

When Mr. Harding finished, the French interpreter announced in behalf of Premier Briand that it would not be necessary to read the speech in French.

Balfour Praises Hughes

In a low voice Secretary Hughes announced that the conference was ready for business, whereupon Arthur Balfour, head of the British delegation, rose amidst an outburst of cheering. "There is a universal practice," he said, "that the nation which offers the conference hospitality shall provide the chairman and presiding genius. That would follow anyway but the secretary of state not only has technical right, but personal qualifications for the high and responsible duties of the office. I therefore feel on behalf of the British delegation that you, Mr. Secretary, should take the chair now and hereafter in all our sessions and on any committee of which you may be a member."

Hughes Replies to Critics
It was something new for Washington to see the dual language scheme in operation. The French interpreter repeated the remarks of Mr. Balfour, whereupon Secretary Hughes arose and thanked the delegates for inviting him to become chairman.

"The inclusion of Far Eastern questions," he said, "was not for the purpose of embarrassing or delaying the limitation of armaments but to reach an understanding about the Far East and if possible remove discernible causes of controversy."

For some time there has been criticism because the two things were combined and Mr. Hughes used the occasion to answer the critics. He insisted that the questions at issue in the Far East and the problems of limitation of armament were inseparable. But the secretary announced that armament questions would nevertheless be given precedence and hoped that both subjects be considered in committee contemporaneously.

TAKES CARE OF 5 CHILDREN

Mrs. Taylor's Sickness Ended by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Roxbury, Mass.—"I suffered continually with backache and was often dependent, had dizzy spells and at my monthly periods it was almost impossible to keep around at my work. Since two years ago my back has been worse and no position I could get in would relieve it, and doctor's medicine did not help me. A friend recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I have found great relief since using it. I keep house and have the care of five children and I am very thankful I have found Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound such a help. I recommend it to any woman suffering as I was before I used it."—Mrs. MAUDE E. TAYLOR, 5 St. James Place, Roxbury, Mass.

Backache is one of the most common symptoms of a displacement or derangement of the female system. No woman should make the mistake of trying to overcome it by heroic endurance, but profit by Mrs. Taylor's experience and try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

was inclined to follow the European custom of sitting at his desk and reading aloud his notes. Some one motioned to him to stand. He readily complied with the request, and then the remarks of Mr. Balfour, whereupon Secretary Hughes arose and thanked the delegates for inviting him to become chairman.

Yolk Pigment.

It is reported that a chemist abroad has succeeded in isolating the yellow pigment of the yolk of egg in a crystalline state, and finds that it is closely related to the xanthophyll of leaves. This is regarded as an important scientific discovery. To extract four grains of crude pigment the investigator employed the yolks of no less than 6,000 eggs. The crystallized pigment is known as lutein.

New Yeast Vitamon Tablets Round Out Face and Figure

With Firm, Healthy Flesh, Increase Energy and Beautify the Complexion—Easy and Economical to Take—Results Quick

The so-called "run-down" folks who want to quickly get some good, firm, solid flesh on their bones, fill out the hollows and sunken cheeks with strong, healthy tissues, and build up increased energy and vitality should try taking a little Mastin's VITAMON with their meals. Mastin's VITAMON is a dry tablet containing highly concentrated yeast-vitamins as well as the two other still more important vitamins (Fat Soluble A and Water Soluble C). It banishes pimples, boils and skin eruptions as if by magic, strengthens the nerves, builds up the body with firm flesh and tissue and often completely rejuvenates the whole system. Quick, gratifying results. No gas caused.

If you are thin, pale, haggard, drawn looking or lack energy and endurance take Mastin's VITAMON—two tablets with every meal. Then weigh and measure yourself each week and continue taking Mastin's VITAMON regularly until you are satisfied with your gain in weight and energy.

IMPORTANT! While the remarkable health-building value of Mastin's VITAMON has been clearly and positively demonstrated in cases of lack of energy, nervous troubles, anemia, indigestion, constipation, skin eruptions, poor complexion and a generally weakened physical and mental condition, it should not be used by anyone who OBJECTS to having their weight increased to normal. Do not accept imitations or substitutes. You can get Mastin's VITAMON tablets at all good druggists.

principal characters in the story is wrecked.

"A Wife's Awakening" unfolds a story that is close to the hearts of every man and woman, regardless of whether or not one has had experience in matrimony. It tells of a wife whose trust of her husband is so blind and so tense that her efforts to save his honor place her own reputation under the shadow.

Took Mate With Him in Death.

For many years a pair of swans lived on the lakes in the grounds of Meldrum house, Aberdeenshire, Scotland. One day the male swan, who was getting lame and evidently feeling his age, while sailing along with his mate, seized hold of her head and held her under water until she died, shortly after he himself was found dead near the same spot.

Miss Dolly Wise

She is here to answer any and all questions concerning love, matrimony, troubles, woes, etiquette, etc. Inquiries should be addressed to Miss Dolly Wise, care The Daily Times, Portsmouth, Ohio.

Dear Dolly Wise—Will you please answer a question for me? I have a farm of 200 acres and am having some land cleared up on it now what I want to know, Dolly, how many rods in an acre. The arithmetic shows 4356 square rods, now the farmers tell me 16 1/2 rods make an acre in expansive farms. Please answer.

The arithmetic tells me that 5 1/2 yards make 1 rod or 16 1/2 feet, 30 1/4 square yards equal 1 square rod and 160 square rods one acre.

Dear Dolly—I will write a few lines to the readers of your column. I see that there has been so many writing and saying they are not happy, because they married for spite. That is what I done and I am the most miserable man on earth. For the love of Mike, boys, take my advice and don't marry for spite or listen to neighborhood gossip. That is my case. I believed others instead of believing the one that would have died for me, she was the best friend I had, but I could not see it then, but now it is too late. Oh, if I could be single myself, where I was two years ago, I would be the happiest man living. My wife goes when she pleases and where she pleases and when I say anything she tells me to shut my mouth, she'll go when she gets ready. So the poor old man will have to make the best of it now. Men and boys, take my advice and be true to the girl you make love to. Never break a good girl's heart, for if you do you will have to suffer for it some time.

BROKEN HEARTED GABE

Take my advice now and forget all former sweethearts and make the best husband you know how, and love will come and you can still be happy.

Dear Miss Wise—Since the World War is over who is the ruler of Germany? I was in the war and received wounds and I put in a claim for compensation and was examined by a doctor and they sent my papers away and I haven't heard a word from them yet. Now, Dolly, who shall I write to for information? It has been six weeks since I was examined. I am not from this state, I was examined in Kentucky. Please give me all the information you can.

SOCIETY

Consult the local Red Cross in the First National Bank building.

Dear Dolly—To whom could I write to report some one that is violating the prohibition law? M. O. H.

Write or consult the prosecuting attorney of the county.

Dear Miss Wise—Please tell me what will take persimmon stains out of unbleached muslin and calico.

CONFESSIONS OF A MOVIE STAR

CHAPTER XXV — JIMMY'S ATTITUDE PUZZLES ME

"SAND still! Don't move! Don't speak! Don't turn your head!"

I couldn't imagine what had happened, but I obeyed Jimmy as if he had been born to command me. In a minute he issued another order:

"Get me a big club! And some rocks!"

I turned. With a forked branch, Jimmy was holding down the head of a serpent. In spite of my pretty philosophy about the harmless milk snake, I had a horror of the genus. And I shall never in my life get rid of the picture of Jimmy Alcott holding down that writhing serpent, stoically, heroically, while I found a club for him and the stones.

I couldn't run for help. I couldn't leave him until I was sure he had saved himself as well as me from the poisoned fangs.

The whole scene came back to me, "a vision," while Bobby, the electrician, talked to me at the table in the studio restaurant.

In the midst of the gay crowd making love, false love, mock love, counterfeit love, or comparing hooch for mauls, or boasting about bets, I considered the cool beauty of that distant day.

Jimmy and I had shared that one unforgettable adventure, and more than one very happy hour. If he hadn't killed that rattler, as Jimmy, I would not have been there to watch him, as Dick, telling a joke to Ginevra; and wanting him, with a big hurt at my heart, wanting him to come and talk to me.

I couldn't imagine why he was so unreasonable and illogical. Never a word about the old time. Never an inquiry about Motherdeer who had been so nice to him.

Was Dick cruel? Like the characters he played? Or did he honestly prefer a girl like Ginevra to a girl like me?

From that time, I encouraged Rose to gossip in my room. In no other way could I hear about Dick.

Rose always knew what the men of the company were talking about. She had the news from Henry Larkin, her husband. The latest news had amazed the most enmied actor: Cissy had quit gambling! He had passed up the old betting bunch. Some of the men joined with Ginevra in chasing him as a piker.

But Rose said that when it came to a good time, Dick Barnes was no better than Cissy. If the whole company was like those two, it sure would be a dull bunch. The men averred that if Cissy kept on behaving and reforming, he'd be made a star pretty soon.

And Cissy ought to get married. But who would he marry? And Dick Barnes was another confirmed bachelor. He had been heard to say that he never would marry one of McMaster's stars.

Rose, who was a whiz at imitations, used her husband's voice, then Cissy's, then Dick's and made me laugh, and then went away leaving me in a most uncomfortable state of mind.

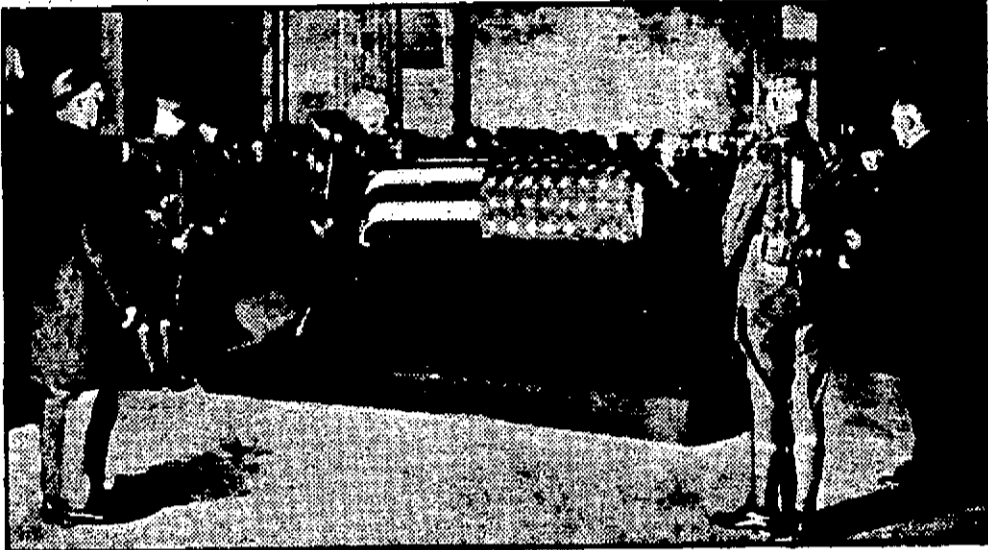

So Dick Barnes would not marry a girl who had been made a star by McMaster's stars.

What reason had he for making such an utterly ridiculous vow?

THE POPULAR CAPE

BY MARIAN HALE

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—The cape, most useful and convenient of all women's wraps, is with us again and is more popular than ever.

The newest Franklin Simon capes from Paris range from the voluminous effects which are adaptable to the attenuated Rossetti type of woman, to the straighter-lined models.

But one thing is most essential for every woman to remember—she must drape the cape about her figure to be really artistic and effective. There is nothing worse than a long cape that "just hangs."

A handsome model is of blue merveilla with an original cut permitting deep bands of fur about the arm-holes to resemble cuffs.

Another model shows the material gathered on a small yoke.

Still another, illustrated here, has handsome embroidery of gray on the blue merveilla, and a high astrakhan collar.

A black cape, also of merveilla, shows insets over the arm over which the encircling material is laced. The tips of the linings are of squirrel and is the collar.

Capes are shown in all sorts of materials and all combinations of furs and colors.

World's Debt to American Sailors. The famous Wind and Current Charts, published by Lieut. Maury, of the United States navy, in the middle of the last century, were immensely valuable to mariners in pointing out the quickest and safest routes for sailing vessels. British shipping alone is said to have benefited from them to the extent of $10,000,000 a year.

and friends, directed that the residuary estate should be divided into 23 equal shares, to be distributed among the heirs whom he named. Thus, it comes about that an estate which if held together and wisely administered might have become very large, was deliberately so distributed that in a few years its entirety was gone and its portions had been absorbed into the general body of the country's wealth.

"If that process of disintegration and absorption involved some loss, it is probable that in the sum of results the nation was gainer by the policy of Washington.

"Washington as a model citizen, shines forth with a peculiar radiance from his last testament. The first provision is that his debts shall be paid promptly. All the world needs the example of such obligations.

"The second item makes general provision for his wife, and then comes the direction that at her death all his slaves shall be given freedom.

"Next follow devices of funds to aid education of poor or orphaned children, and for the endowment of a university in a central part of the United States.

"Another specific bequest goes to Liberty Hall Academy, now Washington and Lee University at Lexington, Va. A list of debtors are forgiven their debts. To each of five nephews he gave one of his swords with an injunction not to unsheath them for the purpose of shedding blood except in his country and its rights and in the latter case to keep them unsheathed and prefer falling with them in their hands to the relinquishment thereof.

"There is no selection of words, wherever more eloquently to express the full duty and obligation of a good citizen to his country. Let us be thankful that the spirit of that injunction has been borne in upon the nation he founded and animates it even to this day.

Character of Good Citizenship
"As a character of good citizenship and patriotic purposes this last will and testament has been an inspiration many times to me. I commend its thoughtful reading to whoever would emulate his example. Indeed, as we are gathered here, representatives of a grateful and reverent nation to signalize the consummation of one more public beneficence inspired by him, I can think of nothing more appropriate than to urge the study of the farewell address and the last will and testament as complements of each other. Neither of them can be fully appreciated without the other. The farewell address was the final adjuration of the soldier, the statesman, the founder. The will and testament was the last word of the Christian citizen, the loving husband, the devoted businessman, and the provident man of business.

"I am prone to believe they contain a chart by which the captains and pilots of a world in distress, seeking harborage from battering storms and raging unknown deeps, might well lay the course of civilization itself.

"Within a brief century and a half, the American people under Washington's inspiration have created a great nation, added to the dominion of liberty and of opportunity, and, we may hope, afforded a helpful example to the world. It has not been accomplished without heavy sacrifices. At fearful cost we had to wipe out an ambiguity in the constitution and re-establish union where disunion threatened. In a conflict well nigh as wide as the world, we were called to draw the sword for humanity and the relief of oppression. Very recently we have passed to speak tribute to those who sacrificed in that struggle for civilization's preservation. We can not too often or too earnestly repeat that tribute, and we consecrate this institution as a memorial and a shrine in reminder to all the future of the services and sacrifices of our heroes of the world war."

U. S. Lays Cards On The Table

that "for a period of not less than ten years there should be no further construction of capital ships." Tremendous applause greeted this statement.

For Great Britain, Mr. Hughes suggested that construction on the four new Hood battleships be stopped and that in addition all pre-dreadnoughts—second line battleships and first line up to the "King George V" class be scrapped. This would mean, he explained, a total of nineteen capital ships, of a total tonnage to be wiped out, including the new Hoods, of 583,275 tons. This is less in tonnage than the United States would lose in preserving the idea of "the existing naval strength of the powers concerned."

For Japan, Mr. Hughes proposed that all but two new battleships and four battle cruisers be abandoned. He remarked that "this does not involve the stopping of construction, as the construction of none of these ships has been begun."

Next Mr. Hughes advocated that Japan should scrap the famous "Mitsun" and "Kago," the most powerful battleships ever planned, as well as four battle cruisers authorized but not laid down. The total number of capital ships scrapped would be seven and the total tonnage 289,000, together with ten battleships of the second line would mean a grand total of 448,525 tons.

C. S. Gives Up Most
It will be noted that under this plan the United States would agree to give up the most tonnage, $15,740, as compared with Britain's 583,275 and Japan's 418,925.

value a maximum tonnage for replacement of 500,000 tons for the United States, Great Britain 500,000 tons and Japan 300,000 tons. He also declared that 35,000 tons should be the limit in size of any new battleships. In concluding Mr. Hughes predicted that enormous sums would thus "be released to aid the progress of civilization and at the same time the proper demands of national defense will be adequately met and the nations will have complete opportunity during the naval holiday of ten years to consider their future course. Preparation for offensive naval war will stop now."

Typical of American Tactics
It is difficult to describe the cheering and enthusiasm of the galleries as the secretary of state of the United States finished his speech. The delegates sat quietly, only a few joining in the demonstration of applause—those who could understand English. Announcement was made that a French text had been printed and would be distributed after the end of the session so no visible opportunity was given to determine the effect of Mr. Hughes' remarks. The delegates showed their surprise, however. The British and Japanese took up their pencils and began to make notes before they learned that copies would be available later. It was a sensational performance and typical of American tactics.

TO ARRANGE TENTATIVE PROGRAM OF PROCEDURE FOR ARMS MEETING

WASHINGTON, D. C., November 14.—(By the Associated Press)—While naval experts of the foreign powers today continued to examine the American proposals for limitation of naval armament, heads of the American, British, Japanese, French and Italian delegations conferred to map out a plan of procedure to expedite consideration of the whole armament question. American officials emphasized that the plan presented to the conference Saturday by Secretary Hughes was purely an American proposal and that advance knowledge of it had been kept carefully from all the representatives of the other powers. Although it had become known that some far-reaching plan would be presented early in the conference, it was declared that no details either as to the basis of the proposal or the exact time of its presentation were permitted to reach any of the other delegates.

In consequence it was assumed that several days would be required for the naval advisers of Great Britain and Japan, the powers chiefly concerned, to prepare any estimate of the acceptability of the sweeping American proposals. It was indicated that today's meeting of the five heads of delegations was not for the purpose of actually considering the plan, but rather was devoted to more or less routine discussion of a method of procedure.

At the state department there was every indication today that the public reaction from this government's first bold step in the conference had been entirely reassuring. Messages of praise and approval came to Secretary Hughes' office by thousands and the White House likewise was deluged with congratulatory expressions on the opening of the conference.

A synopsis of the proposal for armament reduction has been sent to American diplomatic and consular agents throughout the world for such use as they may deem expedient. It was explained that this step was another part of the effort of the American government to give the negotiations the widest possible publicity.

WASHINGTON, D. C., November 14.—With the next general session of the conference on the limitation of armaments scheduled for tomorrow, heads of the various delegations hoped to agree today on at least a tentative program for procedure.

For the purpose of arranging preliminary details two important meetings were to be held during the day—one this morning to discuss the program for armament negotiations, the other this afternoon to shape up procedure for the forthcoming discussions of Far Eastern questions.

Heads of the American, British, French, Italian and Japanese delegations, as members of the committee on program and procedure for limitation of armaments, were to be participants in the morning meeting, while heads of the delegations of all nine nations represented at the conference are members of the committee on program and procedure for Far Eastern questions, which meets in the afternoon.

Americans To Meet
A meeting of the American advisory committee of twenty-one also had been called for this afternoon, at which Chairman Sutherland will announce the personnel of the six sub-committees already authorized to handle special subjects before the conference.

Preliminary to further conference sessions, delegates today continued their study of Secretary Hughes' proposal for the immediate reduction of the British and United States and Japanese fleets and for a ten year naval holiday.

While spokesmen for Great Britain and Japan continued to confine themselves to guarded comment, the American delegation was encouraged by the attitude of the representatives of the other powers, affected by the proposal and were confident that there was at least no possibility of a flat rejection of the plan and that it would form the basis of whatever agreement is reached.

It appears that the United States, it has entered the conference, as declared by President Harding in his opening address.

INFORMAL BUT SMART

BY MARIAN HALE

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Just as you adjust yourself nicely to something roomy at the neck and bonnet as you skirt for winter frivolities, do you find that your smartest gown for informal wear must cling to your neckline in an odd little collar, reminiscent of Peter Pan.

A circular yoke effect is found right below the clever little collar and the lines which fall straight from it are long and clinging. A narrow belt, loosely fitted, suggests a waistline.

Embarrassing Query.
A parrot had its cage near the door connecting the drawing room and the dining room. One evening, as the men of the party were filing into the dining room, the parrot eyed each entrant as if trying to recognize them. As the most diminutive of the gentlemen passed in, the parrot, evidently puzzled, said distinctly, "And who the deuce are you?"

$2 IT'LL BUY MEALS FOR ONE WEEK IN LONDON.

By NEA Service

LONDON—"Meals, $2 a week!" With that slogan the Alexandria Trust Dining Rooms is crowding its tables with hungry patrons three times a day and driving its competitors out of the game.

And there's no catch in it. The restaurant will really give you three meals a day every day except Sunday for 10 shillings a week. That's even less than $2 at present exchange rates.

The meals are good ones, too. For breakfast, herring, bread and coffee or oatmeal, turkey and cocoa, or toast, bacon and tomatoes are served. For dinner—at noon, of course—you may have roast beef, Yorkshire pudding and two vegetables or sausages, onions, beans and baked jam roll.

For tea you can order cold fish and bread or roast mutton with two vegetables.

The menu changes frequently and never gets old. Some of the dishes look strange to Americans but they're staple English articles of diet.

How does the restaurant keeper do it? By serving lots of fish and sea food. That's the cheapest thing in London, but everyone likes it.

And high volume and steady patronage swell the small profits on individual meals to a tidy sum.

COMB SAGE TEA INTO GRAY HAIR

Darkens Beautifully and Restores Its Natural Color and Lustre At Once

Common garden sage, brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, a large bottle, at little cost, at drug stores, known as "Wreth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of fuss.

While gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wreth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft, luxuriant, and you appear years younger.—Advertisement.

Peculiar Earth Rumbles.
The neighborhood of Moodus, Connecticut, used to be celebrated for subterranean sounds known as "Moodus noises." Sometimes eight or ten reports, like the firing of small arms, were heard in 5 minutes, and again the noise was like cannonading or thunder. Slight earthquakes were probably the cause.

Response to the annual Red Cross roll call indicates that Scioto county is alive to the importance of this noble work, and that as usual the people of this community will do their share in raising the money to make Red Cross work a world-wide success. Chairman Mark W. Crawford, at the head of the roll call committee, says he is gratified over the enthusiasm shown by the workers, but at the same time wants to warn all about overconfidence. "This is a case where each individual must do his or her part. If we are to be genuinely successful," said Mr. Crawford, "I am sure there will be few refusals to join the Red Cross if all will reflect for a few minutes over the good this organization is doing, and what would happen if its activities were to cease."

To Miss Marcella Rowlands, of 1517 Third street goes the honor of turning in the first one hundred memberships. There are several others close on her heels.

New Boston is active, and is setting an example for other communities outside the city.

At the Cedar Avenue, New Boston, Christian church at 2:30 p. m. Sunday afternoon, a large enthusiastic audience gathered to hear the Red Cross message and to receive instructions as to the territory of New Boston in which each should work.

Rev. Robert Allbaugh presided. Mr. Elmer Pitter led the singing, accompanied by Miss Marjorie Gortch on the organ. Following scripture reading and prayer, Mr. Fred Winter gave a detailed description of work done by the local chapter in Scioto county. Mr. Russell McCurdy then spoke on the uselessness of intolerance and having prejudices and requested earnest cooperation with Mother Red Cross in her efforts. Splendid talks were then made by Rev. R. Allbaugh, Supt. of schools, D. B. Ross, and Miss Ida Rose, of Glenwood avenue, chairman of the production department in that territory. The New Boston committee remained to perfect plans after the larger meeting was over.

IF BACKACHE OR KIDNEYS BOTHER

Eat Less Meat, Also Take Glass of Salts Before Eating Breakfast

Fat and meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.

Eat less meat, drink lots of water; also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts: take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then get fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

H. E. Menke Making Good

Howard E. Menke, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Menke, of 1708 Hutebins street, is making a good name for himself as a scrappy linemen on the Otterbein football team at Otterbein College, Westerville, Ohio. The fact that Menke is bothered with rheumatism alone keeps him out of the lineup as a regular.

Menke has earned for himself a reputation as a student which even surpasses that of a football player. He is a junior in college and graduated from the Portsmouth High School.

Simple Remedy for Drowsiness.
Drowsiness in church is often caused by poor ventilation. Try to choose a seat where fresh air is assured. To keep awake in church when inclined to be drowsy, lift one foot a little away from the floor and keep it there. It is impossible to go to sleep with the foot poised in the air. This simple remedy is very effective.

Gas, Indigestion, Stomach Misery —"Diapepsin"

"Pape's Diapepsin" "really does" put bad stomachs in order—"really does" overcome indigestion, dyspepsia, gas, heartburn and sourness in five minutes—that—just that—makes Pape's Diapepsin the largest selling stomach regulator in the world. If what you eat ferments into stinkbom lumps, you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food and acid; head is dizzy and aches, remember the moment "Pape's Diapepsin" comes in contact with the stomach, all such distress vanishes. It's truly astonishing—almost marvellous—and the joy is its harmlessness. A large sixty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin is worth its weight in gold to men and women who can't get their stomachs regulated. It belongs in your home—should always be kept handy in case of a sick, sour, upset, stomach during the day or at night. It's the most efficient antacid and stomach regulator in the world.

Mr. Shriver Will Be Candidate

MORE SACRIFICE FOR U. S. AND JAPAN THAN ON PART OF GREAT BRITAIN

LONDON, November 14—The American plan for a ten year naval holiday and the scrapping of all but a limited number of warships call for much less sacrifice on the part of Great Britain than by the United States and Japan. In the view of the naval correspondent of the Daily Mail, "The proposed sacrifice," he says, "would be a heavy one for Japan and the United States, but comparatively trifling one for Great Britain, as the latter has not yet incurred any great outlay on the four new ships just ordered."

The American scheme involves no injury to British interests, for in plain fact the British navy today is third in post-war ships and ocean going submarines, the two factors which will probably count for the most in future naval warfare.

"The real question is whether Japan will be content to accept conditions which place her navy in a position of permanent inferiority."

Other correspondents point out that Great Britain already has taken the lead in the reduction of naval armaments, her progressive scrapping of warships since the armistice having amounted up to last April, to more than five hundred vessels, of which 500 were destroyers. Statistics are printed to show that neither Japan nor the United States has gone very far in this direction.

Most of the naval writers are obviously taking time to digest the proposals outlined by Secretary Hughes and thus far little expert opinion is distinct from editorial views has been published here.

All other news is subordinated to the Washington dispatches in this morning's newspapers. The drastic proposals for naval limitation naturally hold first place, but the speeches of President Harding and Mr. Hughes are also fully reported, while other dispatches describe the effect produced in America and the attitude of the various delegates toward the American proposals.

Aristotle in Error.
Before anything was known about the laws of gravitation, it was commonly believed, on the authority of Aristotle, that every body had a "natural" place, and that its normal state was one of rest in that place. Thus a stone was supposed to sink in water because its natural place was at the bottom of the water.

Annual Earth Disturbances.
Throughout the world about 4,000 earthquakes strong enough to be perceptible to the human senses, occur annually on an average.

Hon. J. A. Shriver of Manchester, who is well known throughout this senatorial district, it is stated, will be a candidate for the Republican nomination for state senator next year. Mr. Shriver was a candidate for the senatorial nomination on two previous occasions but when defeated, took off his coat and worked for his successful opponent. Adams county has not had a state senator for 27 years, and were the district to remain the same would likely be conceded the Republican nomination this time. If the election district is taken on, the situation is complicated considerably.

Mr. Shriver is an excellent gentleman, well qualified for the office he seeks.

BOY SCOUTS ARE GIVEN MEDALS AT THE ANNUAL FALL RALLY MEETING

A splendid crowd of parents and friends turned out last night at the First Presbyterian Church for the fall rally of the Boy Scouts of the city. The various troops met at the High School and marched to the church, where they were welcomed by Troops 1 and 2 of the First Church. The scouts themselves, led by their Scoutmasters, made a brave sight as they marched down the aisle and took their places in the section reserved for them. There are any number of young fellows in the city. It is difficult to imagine where they are.

First Church has always been interested in the Boy Scouts. The first troop in the city was organized here nine years ago, and they still proudly continue to maintain Troop One. Here was the city's first gymnasium, and though there are larger ones now, many recall the snappy basketball games that were played there in the olden days. The First Presbyterian is the only church in the city that boasts two troops, they being sponsor for Troop Three as well as for Troop One.

The pastor, Rev. D. C. Nord, presided the awarding of merit badges, pennants and medals by a short sermon on "The Keepers of the Bridge," combining the story of how Elisha kept the fords of Jordan, and suffered not a foeman to pass, with that of Horatio at the bridge over the river.

"There is another bridge," he said, "more perilous than over the muddy river; more difficult to hold than the passage of the fords of Jordan; the bridge that lies between mere childhood and achieved adulthood, between yesterday and tomorrow, the bridge of adolescence." The speaker showed that the home represented Horatio, holding the center of the bridge, and calling to his aid on the right side, the church, the Sunday School, the Public School, and every agency of religion and education. But the left hand placed—who will hold the bridge for the gang spirit of youth? This, he held, the Boy Scouts provided.

The speaker paid a rare tribute to the work done by the Boy Scout Troops of the city, which no other agency could perform for the spirit of youth. Especially did he appeal to the Scoutmasters to recognize their personal responsibility to their boys. "If there is a bit of mud in your heart," he said, "be sure they'll find it out; but if you are a real man, virile, true and strong, be sure they'll find that out, too."

Following the address Edward S. Gilliam, Scout Executive, made an address appreciative of the work done by the Scouts the past year, and proceeded to make the various awards, which were met with warm applause from the audience. There were 102 merit badges, 9 pins, 5 pennants and 32 medals awarded during the evening, a total of 148. These were presented to each scout or to troop representative by Rev. D. C. Nord.

The thirty-two gold, silver and bronze medals that were to be awarded were very attractively displayed on a large sheet of cardboard. The scout executive spoke briefly of the various times the Scouts had at camp last summer and of the swimming and the Nature Contests that had been held there, silver medals being the prize for taking first and bronze for second.

Scout Gilbert Fuller was then called to the platform and Rev. Nord awarded him a gold swimming medal for having taken two firsts. Scout Edw. Gilliam was awarded a silver and a bronze with star for having taken one first and two seconds. Frederick Lauffer and Richard Fuller were awarded silver medals for having taken two firsts and Robert Farber a bronze for having taken second. Ralph Monk was awarded a bronze for having won the Officers' Swimming Meet.

Three Nature Contests were held at Camp Kinnikinnick to test on the scouts knowledge of forestry, silver medals being awarded to those who had taken first and bronze to those who had taken second. The first contest was won by Gilbert Fuller, for which he received a silver medal, and Kline Jenkins, bronze for second. In the second contest, Fred Fride and Ralph Monk each made a perfect score, for which each received a silver medal. Lawrence Kimble received a silver medal for winning the third contest and Gilbert Fuller a bronze for second.

The Scouts who had taken Merit Badges in the last three months were then called forward to receive them. Henry Goddard, Troop 8—First Aid to Animals.

Edgar Blair, Second Presbyterian Troop—Civics and First Aid.

John Kahl, Central Presbyterian Troop—Pioneering, Scholarship.

Louis Bernell, Second Presbyterian Troop—Swimming and Craft in Wood.

Richard Young, Bigelow Troop—Carpentry, Firemanship, Bird Study, First Aid to Animals, Electricity.

Richard Fuller, Nature Troop—Forestry, Swimming, First Aid to Animals and Public Health.

Gilbert Fuller, Nature Troop—First Aid to Animals, Pioneering, Forestry, Safety First, Civics.

Howard Clark, Franklin Avenue Troop—Conservation, First Aid, Scholarship, Firemanship, Surveying, Cycling.

Fred Fride, First Presbyterian Troop—Swimming, Camping, Hand-craft, Blacksmithing, Cooking.

Ralph Monk, First Presbyterian Troop—Safety First, Camping, Cooking, Carpentry, Craftsmanship, Handcraft, Blacksmithing and Cycling.

Frederick Lauffer, Evangelical Troop—Firemanship, First Aid to Animals, Public Health, Personal Health, Carpentry, First Aid, Swimming and Lifesaving.

Chas. Frederick, Second Presbyterian Troop—Wood Carving, Painting, Housewifery, Masonry, Gardening, Mining, Chemistry, Signalling, Craft in Cement, Craft in Leather.

William Pinner, Bigelow Troop—Craft in Cement, Pathfinding, Civics, Camping, Safety First, Signalling, Automobile, Firemanship, Electricity, First Aid to Animals.

Lawrence Kimble, Nature Troop—First Aid to Animals, Pioneering, Forestry, Public Health, Personal Health, Firemanship, Camping, Automobile, Cooking, Electricity, Civics, Agriculture, Pathfinding.

Nelson Moore, Nature Troop—First Aid to Animals, Forestry, Swimming, Public Health, Personal Health, First Aid, Scholarship, Surveying, Firemanship, Handcraft, Camping, Civics, Cooking, Automobile, Agriculture, Pathfinding, Athletics, Electricity.

A medal is offered to any Scout of Portsmouth who takes a Merit Badge that has never been taken before by a Portsmouth Scout. Ralph Monk and Fred Fride, both of the First Presbyterian church, were then called to the platform and awarded bronze medals for having taken together the first Merit Badge in Blacksmithing. William Pinner and Chas. Frederick were also awarded bronze medals for having taken together the first Merit Badge in Craft in Cement and Chas. Frederick of the Second Presbyterian Church Troop was awarded another medal for having been the first to take Craft in Leather.

Chas. Frederick of the Second Presbyterian Troop, was then called back to the platform and awarded a gold medal for having broken the previous record of the greatest number of Merit Badges taken by any Scout in Portsmouth. The old record of 41 was established last year by Paul Hobbetter. This sets a new record of 42.

The medals won in the swimming meet held last summer, and open to all Scouts of Portsmouth, were then awarded. Ralph Monk, of the First Presbyterian Troop was awarded a gold medal for winning the meet. Kline Jenkins of the New Boston Troop, a silver for taking second place, and Gilbert Fuller of the Nature Troop and Ollie Greco of the First Presbyterian Troop, a bronze medal each for being tied for third.

The pennants won during the last year were then awarded. The First Presbyterian Troop received the pennant for winning the basketball tournament. The two Decoration Day pennants were awarded to the First Presbyterian and Nature Troops, respectively. The First Presbyterian Troop, 3, was awarded the Junior Baseball pennant, the same troop also receiving a pennant for winning the Swimming Meet.

Howard McNamara, of the First Presbyterian Troop, and Nelson Moore of the Nature Troop, were called to the platform and awarded their Life and Star pins. Donald Jordan, of the First Presbyterian Troop, was awarded his Veteran Pin.

The most important awards of the evening, the medals for Bravery, quickness of action in time of danger, and life saving awarded by the Portsmouth Boy Scout Local Council, were then presented.

The first to receive a medal was Scout Marvin Ross of the First Presbyterian Troop, who stopped a runaway horse last spring. He received a bronze medal.

Scout James Petry of the New Boston Troop, was then called forward and presented with a bronze medal for having saved a little fellow's life. The little boy was coasting down a hill on his sled, and would have been run over by an automobile, had not Scout Petry seen his danger, and jerked him off his sled just as he was about to shoot across the path of the auto.

Scout Edw. Hollingsworth of the Allen Chapel, was next called forward and presented with a bronze medal for having prevented a serious fire in a crowded part of the city. Sparks from a locomotive had set fire to the roof of a wooden house, and Scout Hollingsworth, seeing the fire start, climbed to the roof and dashed a bucket of water on the flames, putting them out before they had made a good start.

Scout Albert Parlow of the Central Presbyterian church was presented with a bronze medal for stopping a runaway team. He saw the team dashing down the street, ran out, caught hold of the bridle of one of the horses and held on till he had brought them to a standstill.

Scout Wells McCann of the New Boston Troop was presented with a bronze medal for pulling a small boy off his sled just as it was about to collide with a moving street car.

Scout Victor Frazier of the Christian church was presented with a silver medal for preventing a comrade from being run over by a street car. The boy was standing on the street car track paying no attention to an oncoming car. The motorman, supposed that he would get off the track, and did not slacken speed, and would have run the boy down had not Scout Frazier sprang forward and jerked him out of the way when the car was about 10 feet away.

Scout Louis Hagerman of the First Presbyterian Troop was awarded a silver medal for saving a small boy from being run over by an automobile. The little fellow had started to run across behind a street car that had just passed and that hid from his sight an auto coming in the opposite direction. He would have been run over by the auto, had not Scout Hagerman, seeing what was about to happen, sprang forward, caught him by the coat and dragged him back just in time. A woman standing on the sidewalk closed her eyes that she might not see the boy killed, not realizing that his life could be saved.

Scout Marion Armstrong of the New Boston Troop was awarded a silver medal for having saved the life of a small boy who was about to be run down by an automobile. The driver of the auto, probably supposing that the little fellow would get out of the way, did not slow up, but the little fellow's attention was attracted by something else, and he stood there quite unconscious of his danger. Scout Armstrong dashed to him and dragged him out of the way. The passing auto almost brushed his clothes as it shot past.

The only gold medal ever awarded by the Portsmouth Local Council for life saving was then awarded to Ralph Monk for saving the lives of two boys in the Scioto river. The two boys had started out to swim across a deep hole, but half way across their strength gave out, and they shouted for help as they started to sink. Scout Monk was sitting on the bank. He tore off what clothes he could and dashed in, reaching them after they had gone down for the second time. Had he brought one to shore, the other must have drowned before he could get back. So he solved the difficulty by bringing them both in together. There was tremendous applause throughout the church as Ralph Monk received his medal, and when he returned to his seat the Nature Troop troop in a body and gave him the Scout Salute, an example which was immediately followed by all the other Scouts in the building.

SOCIETY

The Women's Auxiliary Missionary Society of the First Presbyterian church will hold an all-day missionary meeting at the church on Wednesday, Nov. 16th.

The sessions will begin at ten o'clock in the morning. At noon a luncheon will be served, consisting of chicken pie, scalloped potatoes, bread and butter, jelly, cake and coffee. No charge is to be made for the lunch, but thank offerings are permitted to be as generous as the members care to make them.

The church's missionary in Hainan, China, the Rev. David R. Tappan, Jr., a son of the church, has written a delightful book on his work known as "The Isle of Palms," and this will be the basis of the mission study of the day.

Every member of the society, unless prevented by illness is confidently expected to be present.

Mr. E. E. Sweetman of Columbus was the week-end guest of Miss Mabel Moritz of 1120 Ninth street.

Mr. Thomas Taylor, accompanied by Miss Estelle Shaver of Huntington, W. Va., were week-end guests of Mr. Taylor's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. John Belvin, and his nephew and niece, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Belvin, 1130 Ninth street.

Charles Heinisch, who is employed at the Gilbert Grocery Co., is ill at his home, 1010 Eleventh street.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Geider and father, J. E. Geider, and Mrs. D. S. Webb, of Ashland, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Marshall of Highland avenue.

Mrs. Edward Nagel will entertain the Ketchel Club Wednesday afternoon at her home, 1806 Grant street.

Mrs. McCord's Bible class of Trinity church has been invited to hold its regular meeting at Hopewell Home, Kendall avenue, tomorrow afternoon. This will be in the nature of a donation party for the home. The members are requested to meet at the church at 2 p. m. to take a car to the home. The hostesses include Mesdames B. C. Marsh, Grant Orr, Agnes McGill, Josephine Shandholz, Floyd Strehle, Shump and Mary Smith.

Mrs. Margaret Taylor and daughter, Mrs. Nora P. Easter, of Norwood, are guests at the home of Mrs. Taylor's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. John Belvin, 1130 Ninth street.

The Foreign Missionary Society of Franklin Avenue M. E. church will meet at the home of Mrs. Elmer Lacey, 1218 Kline's Lane, with Miss Ernestine Lacey, Miss Sadie Blum, Mrs. Albert Swearingin and daughter Laura as assistants, on Tuesday evening.

On account of the funeral services of Mr. W. H. Fowler tomorrow afternoon, the Ladies' Aid meeting of the Bigelow M. E. church will not commence until 2 p. m., instead of 2 p. m., as announced.

COURT HOUSE

Appellate Court Here Tuesday

The November term of the Scioto County Court of Appeals will convene at the court house at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning with Judge Edwin D. Sayre, of Athens, William H. McGee, of Waverly and Roscoe J. Mauck, of Guilford, on the bench. The judges are expected to arrive in the city tonight accompanied by Harry B. Grace, official reporter for the court.

The court will have an extremely "tight" docket here this term and as a consequence the session is not expected to extend over more than a couple of days.

Found Safe; Dismissed

John W. Bussler, 33 years old, male, Wheelersburg, was brought into probate court Monday on a lunacy complaint but following an inquest Judge Gilliland made a finding that the man was sane and dismissed him. Drs. F. M. Stewart, Sciotoville, and G. M. Andre, Wheelersburg, were the examining physicians.

Prisoners Taken To Pen

Charles Jones, white, and Thornton Holt, negro, who recently admitted guilt under indictments brought against them and were sentenced by Judge Thomas to the penitentiary, were taken to the big prison at Columbus Sunday.

Jones was sentenced for stealing Dr. Carl Braunlin's automobile and Holt for gun totting.

Seeks Damages

Sarah Hirst is demanding $5,000 damages from Attorney John E. Pardon in an action instituted in common pleas court for the alleged failure of the defendant to perform a certain contract of employment to bring suit for plaintiff within the time limited by statute to contest the will of her aunt, Catherine Williamson, who died at her home in this city on July 19, 1911.

In her petition filed through Attorneys George M. Hawke and Thomas J. Elliott, Cincinnati, the plaintiff says she employed the defendant as her attorney to file and prosecute for her such a suit and claims she paid him a retainer fee of $50, and then declares the defendant negligently delayed the filing of the action, until March 13, 1921, which, it is claimed, was more than one year after the probating of the will in question, and beyond the statutory period for the filing of such suits. She further claims that by reason that the suit was not filed within the one year period, she was non-suited.

William H. Braunfield, local musician, who was sentenced to jail for ten days by Judge Thomas for contempt for failure to comply with an order to pay his wife, Naomi Braunfield the sum of $15 a week for the support of herself and four children, was ordered released yesterday by the court after he had made arrangements to pay up and to continue the payments.

Some Scioto County Pig and Food Club Winners and Leaders

Fourteen Scioto county boys and girls left this morning for Columbus to attend the seventh annual gathering of county and club winners in boys' pig clubs and girls' food clubs.

The big meeting is held at Ohio State University with 600 young people attending from all parts of the state. The meeting is today and Tuesday, with separate programs for the boys and girls.

Besides the young people mentioned in the above list Elizabeth Graf and Gladys Solly also made the trip. They were unable to be in the city Saturday to have their picture taken.

Ruth Holt and Lucille Knare are the county winners in food club work while Howard Moore and Emmett Arn are county winners in pig club work. Besides county winners there are club winners in the group of local visitors at Columbus. The club trip has been made possible through the money advanced by the Scioto County Agricultural Society and the Farm Bureau.

Thirty-nine boys in four clubs completed a year's work while 45 girls in six clubs also completed a year's work.

David Bennett in the picture is county chairman of boys' and girls' club work. Mrs. Holt is leader of the food club at Wheelersburg and Mr. Metz is leader of the United Pig Club on Pine Creek.

Other leaders are Charles Drust, of Haverhill, George Shumway of Minford, E. C. Moulton of Lucasville, Mrs. Lucy Fullerton, Minford, Mrs. E. C. Moulton, Lucasville, Mrs. Helen Butterfield of Haverhill, Mrs. Helen Koch, Wheelersburg and Miss Esther Oakes, Pine Creek.

The success of the work in clubs this year was due to the really great interest shown in the work by the club leaders. They deserve much credit for the success attained this past year with the boys and girls.

Sunday School Attendance

The total Sunday school attendance was 6702 for yesterday. The attendance was good considering the sudden change in the weather. First Christian was in first place with Trinity in second position. Second Presbyterian was the only other school in the 500 class. First Evangelical moved up to fourth place. Sunday's record:

First Presbyterian	402
First Baptist	379
Higlow	361
United Brethren	272
Wheelersburg M. E.	241
Sciotoville Christian	233
Grandview Avenue Christian	218

TEACHER, EXCITED OVER PERIL OF PUPILS, FALLS AND SUFFERS A BROKEN ARM

Miss Jessie Miek, a McKinley school teacher of 1727 Baird avenue, while excited over a narrow escape of some children from being run down by an automobile on their way home from school last Thursday had the misfortune to trip at the curb and suffered a badly broken left arm at the elbow. An X-ray was taken and immediate attention given. Miss Miek will be absent from her school for some time.

Legion Meeting Postponed

The special meeting of the American Legion which was announced for tonight, has been postponed until next Monday. This was done so that the Legion could obtain more data on the shaker list before announcing it. By next Monday it is also hoped to have some definite information to give out, concerning the bonus.

Making Mission Study Fascinating

Mission study is sometimes thought to be a dull and tasteless thing. Here is how the Women's Auxiliary Missionary Society of the First Presbyterian church get around that.

One of the sons of the church, Rev. David S. Tappan, Jr. His father, a former pastor of the local church, is now the church's foreign representative in Hainan, China. Many will recall his trip here on furlough in the late spring. Mr. Tappan has written a delightful book of his work in that field, known as "The Isle of Palms." The ladies will make that their special study next Wednesday at their all-day meeting at the church. Who would not enjoy studying a book by a real live man, one whom you had talked with and known within the year? It is safe to say that a record crowd will be out to the meeting.

As is the custom, a luncheon will be served at noon for all who are present. Mrs. Maurice A. Coe is president of the society.

Pomerene

Endorses

Proposal

WASHINGTON, D. C., November 14. —(By the Associated Press)—Discussion of the American proposals for limitation of naval armament broke out in the senate today within an hour after it convened.

Senator Pomerene, of Ohio, a Democratic member of the foreign relations committee, who brought up the subject, declared he endorsed the American plan "whole heartedly."

"I regard it as the greatest single step yet taken toward disarmament," said Senator Pomerene.

The Ohio senator referred to his resolution for suspension of naval construction during the conference, declaring it would help and not embarrass the negotiations.

The Ohio senator said he hoped the naval committee would report his resolution and said that if nothing was done soon he would move to discharge the committee and bring the resolution before the senate.

State And Iowa Teams Tie

CHICAGO, November 14.—With the close of the Western Conference gridiron championship season a week away, the undefeated Ohio State and Iowa teams, each with four victories to their credit, today are tied for first place honors in the race, which gives every indication of winding up with the 1921 title in dispute.

Wisconsin virtually was eliminated from the race as a result of being held to a 7 to 7 tie by Michigan on Saturday, while the Ohioans were bowling over Purdue 28 to 0, and the Hawkeyes buried Indiana under a 41 to 0 score. Both Ohio State and Iowa have comparatively easy opposition for the final games of the season Saturday and observers believe they will come through with clean slates. Ohio meets Illinois, which has been defeated in all four of its "big ten" games, while Iowa tackles Northwestern, another tail-end in the race, with four defeats in as many games. Wisconsin, however, must face Chicago, one of the strongest contenders in the race.

The standing of the teams today follows, only conference games being included:

Team	W.	L.	Pct.
Ohio State	4	0	0
Iowa	4	0	0
Wisconsin	2	0	2
Chicago	3	1	0
Michigan	3	1	2
Minnesota	2	2	0
Purdue	1	3	0
Indiana	0	4	0
Illinois	0	4	0
Northwestern	0	4	0

Wisconsin still has a chance to finish the season in first place, but this possibility is very remote. In order to accomplish this, Wisconsin must triumph over Chicago, while Ohio and Iowa suffer defeats in the final games. Iowa has met and defeated Notre Dame, a powerful team, while Ohio, conqueror of Chicago, Michigan, Minnesota and Purdue, is capable of playing superb football if extended.

The achievement of Michigan butting the powerful Butler eleven to a tie Saturday was a distinct surprise to gridiron followers. The contest was bitterly fought and the Wolverines started off defeat several times by rallying to a desperate defense. While Wisconsin excelled in open field tackling and displayed a more versatile attack, the teams were about evenly matched in the other departments of play.

Iowa surprised its admirers by signing one of its comebackers for which the eleven is famous by holding Chicago to a 14 to 6 score Saturday. The Illinois played the Chicago eleven off its feet in the first half, leading by a score of 6 to 0 and forced the Maroons to rally from impending defeat in the last two periods. Although the Illini did not cross the Chicago goal line, they drove close enough on three different occasions to enable attempts at field goals, two of which were successful.

The undefeated Iowa eleven in defeating Indiana displayed a versatile attack. Captain Aubrey Devine played his usual brilliant game, frequently getting away for runs of 20 and 25 yards. He shared honors with Locke, the Hawkeye fullback, who ripped big gaps in the Hoosier line almost on every attempt. Devine and Locke each scored three touchdowns and Devine also booted four goals.

Ohio had no trouble in routing over Purdue.

Higgins Is Star

In Higgins, Coach Wilce has a great player to take Capt. Meyers' place when he is through this year. Higgins has the weight, is tall and rangy and knows the game. When he got into the game Saturday he showed up wonderfully well and should be a real star next year.

ILLINOIS AND STATE CLASH SATURDAY

New Boston Hi Team Will Play On Local Field Next Saturday

Next Saturday, afternoon the New Boston high school football eleven will play on the Millbrook park gridiron with the A. O. high school team as its opponent. A. O. is about 17 miles north of Ironton and this year boasts of a big team which has been winning from all comers so far this season.

New Boston will be greatly out-weighted, but the team wants to play and will take on any team for a game, size and weight, not counting when the team wants to battle.

Coach Stivers is well pleased with the showing his team is making this season, although they are not turning in victories.

The only decisive defeat handed the eleven was by Catlettsburg, a more experienced and heavier team. The New Boston high eleven contains lads who are 13, 14 and 15 years of age. There are not many high school teams in this section playing 13 and 14 year old students on a team. Five of the eleven first team players are from the grades, the high school enrollment of boys not being large enough to furnish a complete eleven.

The team will be put through stiff practice sessions this week so as to be ready for the big game Saturday on Millbrook gridiron.

Took Out Time Only Twice

The Ohio State eleven is in wonderful shape. In Saturday's game only two men took out time. This is a remarkable record and many times State was lined up before the Purdue untangled themselves. Right now State probably could beat any team in the country, yes, Yale, Harvard, Princeton, Notre Dame, W. and J. and the whole capitol.

Busy Week For The Smokehouse Team

This is the week the Smokehouse team will get down to brass tacks for his game with the Tanks in Millbrook next Sunday. This is the week when the team will go into real training. There will be practice every night, good hard practice. All the regulars are in fine trim and this week will be devoted to new plays, improving the old ones and getting into fine shape, physically.

Monk And Elssessor May Be Used

Coach Dan Fries of the P. H. S. eleven was not entirely satisfied with the showing made by the backfield men Saturday and in the gym after the game told the backfield men they would have to work harder this week.

to get into the game with Chillicothe next Saturday. Coach Fries says that he may use Elssessor and Monk in the backfield should the present backfield men fail to get down to real work in practice this week.

Wilce Used Many Substitutes

When State seved up the game with Purdue Saturday, Coach Wilce trotted out a big bunch of substitutes, in fact he used more than had ever before appeared in a Conference game. And the second string players more than held their own. They scored a touchdown on Cott's long run, just to prove that their offensive had the kick.

P. H. S. Vs Chillicothe Saturday

P. H. S. will go to Chillicothe Friday to meet the crack High School team there. After winning six in a row the Chillicothe team was beaten at Lancaster Saturday 22 to 7. Lancaster beat Circleville 21 to 7 and Circleville beat Portsmouth by the same score so it looks like Chillicothe has a fast eleven.

Tanks Beat Lombards, 21-7

There is no longer any question about which is the better team, the Ironton Tanks or Lombards of that city.

They staged their championship game this Sunday afternoon before a large crowd and the Tanks won, 21 to 7. It was a well played game and the Tanks were given a run for their money. They hardly expected the lighter team to score.

Too Much Snow; Team Cancels

Several hundred football fans made a useless trip to Millbrook park Sunday afternoon to see the Smoke House eleven battle with the Worthington, O.S. Independents, the latter team cancelling its game here about one o'clock.

According to the Worthington team that hour Columbus and vicinity was under a heavy snow and thinking that Portsmouth was having the same brand of weather decided to call off the trip. This left the local eleven in a hole as it was too late to book a game.

Mrs. George Jay Gould Drops Dead
LAKEWOOD, N. J.—Mrs. George Jay Gould dropped dead while playing golf on Gould estate.

After polishing off Purdue by a surprisingly large score, Ohio's State's next opponent will be Illinois in the Capital City this week-end. And State should win this game by two or three touchdowns.

Purdue was touted as having a real team this year. This may be true, but it did not unwork anything before the 14,000 fans who saw the Indians beaten decisively Saturday. Most of their plays were smothered before they got under way. And State mixed up its plays so bewilderingly that the Purdue team seemed at a loss most of the time to tell where the ball was going.

State executed 15 forward passes Saturday and most of them were beautiful. Their triple and double passes were often brought into play and invariably netted substantial gains. When it came to rushing the ball State again outclassed their opponents. In fact the Indians never had a look in. However, they never quit and kept fighting all the time. State looked better coached and better conditioned.

Aldrich Best Point Getter

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Captain Malcolm Aldrich, of Yale, whose two field goals helped to defeat Princeton on Saturday, still is the leading point scorer of major football teams of the east. He has made nine touchdowns, seventeen goals from touchdowns and four goals from the field, for a total of 84 points.

A Cornell continues in the lead for team scoring, with 351 points. Lafayette second, 246 points, and Penn State third with 230.

Want Game Next Week

The Smoke House Juniors are endeavoring to book a football game for Portsmouth for next Sunday morning. It is possible that Waverly, O., may send its American Legion team to the River City to battle with the Juniors. The Waverly eleven has expressed a desire to come next Sunday so they'll be here for the Portsmouth-Ironton Tanks battle in the afternoon. The Juniors won from Waverly at Waverly early in the season.

Local Players Saw Tanks Win

Captain Louie Chinn, tackle Lou Marsh and Ends Sam and Harry Phillips made a trip to Ironton Sunday to scout the Tanks who played the Lombards of Ironton for the city championship. The Lombards showed they had real fight by playing the heavier team and when the Lombards scored they threw a big scare into the Tank aggregation and loyal fans of the Tanks who thought their goal could not be crossed.

Book Juniors For Turkey Day

Portsmouth will have two football games on Thanksgiving Day. Thanksgiving morning the New Boston high school eleven will play the Smoke House Juniors.

Couch Slagers has secured special permission from the Southern Ohio High School Athletic Association to play the Juniors on Turkey Day.

The New Boston team will practically be the same as played P. H. S. early in the season. Davis, May, David and King who have since left school, will be back into the game for New Boston.

Many Scouts On P. H. S. Team

It is interesting to note, when the P. H. S. team is having such a brilliant season, that half or over of the players are Boy Scouts. Boy Scouts develop players along athletic lines, and the result is seen when Pride, Phillips, Mortz, Campbell, Barklow and Mark are all registered Boy Scouts at the present time, and other members of the team have been Boy Scouts within the last year or two.

Workman Is A Real Star

In Workman, State has undoubtedly one of the best all round quarter-backs in the game today. His work all season has been glib edged, but Saturday against Purdue he shone with special brilliance. He was in almost every play and frequently carried the ball for long gains. He is cool, steady and very reliable.

Cardinals Were Ready

The Cardinals football eleven were on the sixteenth street lot Sunday morning waiting to battle with the Smoke House Juniors. Captain Reinhardt of the Cardinals claims he booked a game with the Juniors Saturday afternoon. But Sunday the Juniors claimed they did not have a booking with the Cardinals and therefore failed to play.

Catlettsburg Beaten

CERED, W. VA., Nov. 14.—Superior weight and a better handled team caused the defeat of the Catlettsburg Whites here Saturday by the Ceredo-Kenora high school squad by a score of 12 to 7. The visitors staged a plucky game but could not break the defense of the West Virginians.

"Most Remarkable Person I've Ever Met"

PHYLLIS DUGANNE

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—If you were to ask her, "Who is the most remarkable person you have ever met?" I would reply, "Phyllis Duganne."

Why? Well, because she is only 21, she is the author of two successful books, she is a constant contributor to the leading magazines, AND she is married and is the mother of an adorable baby.

Looking at this slender, almost fragile young woman, with her frizzy bobbed hair, her achievements really overawe one.

Naturally Phyllis Duganne says it is all nonsense that a woman can't have a career and a baby.

Most of the professional women I know are married, but they haven't babies. They seem to think it puts an end to their careers.

"Why, Jane has really helped me to work. You know babies require set hours and set attention. Up at three, where we have just bought an old house, I used to give her breakfast at eight in the morning, get my own breakfast, the Jane under the pear tree outside my window where I could see her, give her all her toys and then I would work until 12."

"Then I'd bring her in, feed her, put her to bed for her nap, get out luncheon, straighten the house, and work another hour before Jane woke up. Of course, babies do make life more complex, but they give it a deeper meaning and broaden one's understanding. Besides they necessitate work—with the prices of clothes as they are today. You see I believe in women's economic independence; even if my husband were a millionaire! It makes women freer—more independent."

In private life Phyllis Duganne is Mrs. Austin Parker, wife of the young overseas aviator, also a writer.

At eight this young person had her first poem published in a Boston paper, at 12 she won a short story contest in the same paper, at 15 she "saved" in the Saturday Evening Post with her "Crabbed Youth." At the same immature age she became associate editor of a magazine. Her stories began to appear regularly in leading magazines.

At 19 she was married, at 20 she was a mother.

Her first book, "Prologue," was written in those months when Jane was awailed; the proofs were corrected in the hospital after Jane was born.

Her second book, "Rattle," a child's book, has just been published.

At present she has started three books and says she is torn with indecision as to which one to finish first.

Mat Artists Busy

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Martin Plonin, who has been clamoring for several seasons for a chance at the heavyweight catch-as-catch-can wrestling title, now held by Stanislas Zyzanski, will make his first appearance tonight against John Dosek, of Nebraska, in a two in three fall match.

Nine Players Will Graduate

The Huntington Herald Dispatch says:

"Nine members of the P. H. S. team have been seen for the last time, in action against Charleston High. Donovan, Meade, Britton, Martin, Downing, O'Brien, Miller, McAffery and Charles will hang their matshkins in their lockers at the High gym at the end of this coming season and say: 'Fare-thee-well, Red and Blue.'"

Golfers Going To Pinehurst

PINEHURST, N. C., Nov. 14.—The names of Walter Hagen, George Sayers and Tom Boyd were added today to the long list of pros who will descend on Pinehurst within the next few days and compete for honor, glory and $1,375 in the Mid-South Amateur-Professional Best Ball tournament. November 18-19. The cash prizes for the professional members for the leading teams will be: First money, $200; second, $200; third, $200; fourth $100; fifth, $75. Their amateur partners will receive sterling trophies.

Individualism

You can give other people your advice, but you can't give them your experience. You can give them your remedy, but you can't give them your life. Perhaps this is just as well, since each is to live his individual life and make his own best achievement out of it. The man with the ten talents could probably have taken care of those of his fellow-servants as well—then there would have been no loss, but also there would have been no use for the other servants.

Weasel Is Lightning-Like

Swiftness of motion is a requisite of many wild animals of the smaller kind. It is one of their most important means of defense. Perhaps no known animal possesses this in a higher degree than the weasel. He is the "lightning flash" among all animal life.

THE OLD HOME TOWN

Has Ideas for Storing Power.
As a cheap method of storing the intermittent power that nature produces in the tides, the sun's radiation, the wind and the waves of the sea, a Rumanian engineer suggests that this energy be converted into compressed air and stored in subterranean chambers that are formed by penetrating below air-tight layers of clay by artesian wells.

FORESIGHT THAT FAILED

WHEAT is bringing a dollar a bushel in Chicago. Out in Kansas farmers are getting 85 cents.
Mentioning Kansas brings our minds back to several things among the politics of the wild vagary sort. Last year there was a farmers' lobby at Washington. It had delusions about economic matters that blow strong in Kansas. Chief among these was that if the "war" price of $2.26 on wheat were taken off, the cereal would promptly jump up to $3. It was a great idea, for campaign purposes. The Republican organs and spellbinders began to ding dong that Wilson was robbing the farmers on wheat. They kept up the clanging throughout the campaign and it was most effective. It got Harding thousands and ten thousands of votes. Yes, it did more than that. It convinced the Republican leaders that the party was pledged to repeal the statutory price and, for a wonder, they had the party keep its pledge for once. The "war" price of wheat was repealed. Promptly prices jumped. But, oh, sad to relate, they imitated the crawfish and jumped backwards until now an impossible price has been reached.
Dollar wheat!

THERE ARE OTHERS WORSE

THE local campaign took on a spasm of animation for the last few days, just enough to remind old timers of the good old days when a municipal contest was a fierce season of excommunication and recrimination, charges and counter charges, with an injection of personalities that was considerably more than piquant.

Yes, some said the close brought back to them village days and the weekly newspaper, when running for office and quarreling and snarling about it was the chief industry of communities.

Those days haven't departed altogether yet. They linger still in the larger cities, at least in the largest city.

New York also had a mayoralty election on Tuesday. The main contest was between the Democratic nominee and the Republican entry, masquerading as a fusion candidate. As usual the papers were divided about the Democratic nominee, that is except the Hearst dailies. Extreme violence, that also being as usual, marked the conduct of the contest. Hyman, the Democrat, was characterized as a tool of Hearst, an associate and friend of thugs and thieves and a retailer of lies, while Curran, the alleged fusionist, was described as the hireling of corporation robbers and freebooters, who if elected would turn over the whole city to the remorseless pillage of capital and stick-up forces of big business. Rather is this a mild intimation of the accusations that were hurled daily through columns of newspaper stuff.

And after all aren't these elections a queer sort of business anyway? Why should there be either feeling or excitement about them? Why should the run of a limited number of individuals for office be taken more seriously and more in temper than the hunt of hundreds of individuals for jobs? You may answer: Because the public is concerned in the sort of men it shall have in charge of its affairs. Bosh. The public is neither concerned in the sort of men running, nor has it heed of how those men shall run things after they are run. A portion, a small portion, really vote for whom they think the best man. The vast majority either vote for the individual because he is named by the party, may because he represents something that hasn't a thing to do with his qualification for place, because they squint that way themselves. A large lot vote against him because one way or the other they do not like him.

TWO WICKED PRACTICES

THE local Republican faction that was the helm this election of unhappy experience to it, not only wanted all the plumbs but was even ravenous for the crumbs. This led it into the altogether vicious action of exploiting three individuals as Republican candidates for school board and urging their support, though how it expected to choose three when only two were to be elected does not appear.

Henceforth school boards have been pretty well kept out of politics in the city. It remained for a set of factional managers to attempt to make a partisan issue of them. But they conceived the campaign in blunder and carried it out perfectly in the same happy manner.

From a source, altogether reliable, comes the information that in a Washington township, a teacher, the day before election, gave all her scholars circulars advocating the election of a certain set of candidates for county school board and then instructed them to carry them home and tell their parents how to vote.

In how many other schools this was done we do not know, but we do know such action is altogether reprehensible and ought to be, not only severely rebuked, but stopped at once for good and all.

The manner of men in voting, and of women too, for that matter passeth all understanding. For instance, while the poll tax was badly beaten in the city, yet there were several hundred votes for it. A poll tax would mean every adult person would have to pay two or three dollars road work, the money derived therefrom to be spent entirely outside the city. Already Scioto county is spending hundreds of thousands annually for road improvement and Portsmouth contributes two-thirds. Were a poll tax adopted she would have to pay about the same proportion of that. Who wants to do that, especially under the circumstances. We haven't heard a solitary return at this writing, of the vote of the county on the proposition, but we'll set it down right here it voted against the poll tax.

The eclipsed Sun is dead "Martin" if the Republicans had followed its advice Matthews would have been elected. To be sure, but advice "to vote her straight" is not the quintessence of wisdom, of a verity, it is utter folly and about two thousand Republicans are to be congratulated on having the good sense not to either hear or harken unto it.

New-York-Day-By-Day

BY O. O. MATTIE

NEW YORK, November 14.—A page from the diary of a modern Samuel Pepys: Up and about early in low spirits. At Cafe Françoise I had a fried poulet and Leon Errol, the comic actor, sat awhile telling me a drollery and drove me as far as his inn in his benzine buggy.

Strolling on Forty-Second street, I chanced to see young Lord Astor, who appears to have grown to good health whereas he was puny. Going to an ugly street in Hell's Kitchen I made shift to secure a joinder for my wife's mother but an ill tempered fellow would not take any work.

Home and at my scrivener and Jay Kaufman came and we sent a gay telegram to Miss Franchise Larrimore, who is play acting in Chicago. Our house maid brought a fit of terror told us of a fellow coming in from the street to an auto room and pistoling himself and we watched them take him away in a litter from our window.

In the evening my wife and I be-thought ourselves to go to a Kosher lun on West Houston street for dinner where we had a mess of potage, some chicken livers and stuffed fish, very noble, and then walked in the slums watching the push cart men sell their wares under the banjo torches. So home and to bed.

The jargon of the New York news changes with the seasons. They used to cry: "Evening Poipers." Then a few years ago they sang: "Here Yare! Get your papers." Now in the Times Square district they are yelling: "Which is it? Name your paper!" Pronounced Day-po.

New York again has Louis Sherry. His old place on Fifth Avenue was turned into a metropolitan bank and Sherry went to Paris. His new restaurant is at Park Avenue and Forty-Ninth street. When I first came to New York Sherry's for lunch was my goal and my purse whispered Child's. It was considered devilish to drift into the old Sherry's in the late afternoon and pay 20 cents for a Martini when one could go anywhere else on Fifth Avenue and get the same drink for 15. Then, too, Sherry had the never to be forgotten olives and salted almonds to whip up the thirst for just one more. Upstairs over old Sherry's were a few rooms for bachelors—and the richest bachelors in town lived there. The old corner will never be the same. Silk Hat Harry and his baroque drawn by two white chargers moved to a stand at Union Square. One had to engage him days in advance now he rarely has a customer.

Art is simply going to the how-ows. Guy Peue Du Bois comes out flaily with the shocking statement that no one is doing anything for Art these days but the Dadaists. We know a lot of chorus girls who are simply devoted to Dadaism—at least they are eternally talking about their Sweet Daddies—but we didn't know it had reached such high favor in the realms of art.

Homer Crov vouches for the truth of this tragedy. Shortly before going to England Sinclair Lewis bought a fancy suit case for his wife. They used it on a week-end trip up the Hudson. It was stolen on the train and in it was the manuscript of Lewis' new novel. The wallop in the yarn is that Lewis did not have a carbon copy.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES

By W. G. S. BLEY

The Shiloh Service, Gallipoli, Ohio

Elihu Root On Brain and Heart

Elihu Root, astute lawyer, diplomat, statesman and politician, long acquainted with world conditions, now years beyond three-score and ten, with the vision and insight, the sagacity and knowledge, acquired by varied experiences at home and abroad in public and private affairs, recently uttered two sentences worth deep consideration. They are:

"All the sermons ever preached, all the books ever printed, working through the brain of man, cannot fit him for the acceptance of the highest tasks that man is capable of. The development of character must come through exercise of the virtues that make human character—mercy, compassion, kindly consideration, sympathy with fellow men, unselfish willingness to sacrifice for others."

These words from a man notably able and adroit in court, sagacious in diplomacy, powerful in statesmanship and smooth in politics, with fifty years of active rough and tumble life behind him, emerges with the confession that the intellect is not the seat of character, but the heart. It is an important distinction. Men accept intellectually all the truths of character, but that acceptance does not fit them for "the highest tasks" unless those truths control the heart as well as the intellect.

The emotions which arise in our hearts control our intellects, and Mr. Root knows that no matter what the intellect accepts as right, it fails utterly in the practice of righteousness if the heart is acrimonious, mean, cruel and selfish. No education, no matter how wide and polished, will fit a man for high service if his heart remains cold and unresponsive to those virtues which should be entrenched in his dearest emotions.

Selfishness or Salvation
Already the preliminary gestures of the conference for the limitation of armaments are being made, not officially or by us, but informally by the fringe of the visitors from other nations.

With what instructions, what purposes, are the delegates themselves coming to the conferences? Are they to arrive stuffed with schemes for bargaining, plans to make a profit for the nations they are to represent, cocked and primed for shrewd secret diplomacy? or are their hearts filled with an earnest, sincere, unselfish desire to rid the world of the crushing burden of excessive armaments and wars?

We note a willingness at home to believe that selfishness is to prevail among our visitors. We trust it is not well founded. Any nation that comes to bargain, to sell righteousness for a consideration, to change money in a temple of peace and good will toward all men, will be out of place. Certainly it will meet with the instant condemnation of the American people.

The conference is designed to save the peoples of the world, not to strengthen some nations at the expense of others.

England Wants a Dawes

The English Government, squeezed by enormous expenses of government, with Northcliffe's papers protesting against the expenditure of great sums in Palestine and Macedonia, such as we would be using in Armenia under the highly benevolent assignment of the League of Nations if we had adopted the Covenant, has been impressed by the view of General Dawes as Director of the American Budget.

Sir Eric Geddes has been given a commission to use the ax on unnecessary governmental expenditures under some such authority as that exercised in Washington by the Chicago banker, soldier, philanthropist and go-getter. We wish him success. It is altogether possible that Mr. Dawes may become not only the American model of business in government, but the international leader in the elimination of waste and the installation of economies in administration.

Charles of Austria on a British ship headed straight for exile is a suggestive incident for Wilhelm of Germany to ponder. It was an English ship that took Napoleon to exile. Wilhelm was a vast mischief maker, not a military genius.

A senior class in a high school, asked to name the four greatest American problems, answered: Foolish dress, idleness, moving pictures and joy riding. They will be voting in three years.

Wheat production in the world this year runs almost 191,000,000 bushels more than last year. The world production in 1921 is approximately three billion bushels.

Congress is asking for $10,000,000 for the enforcement of prohibition for the coming year, $2,500,000 more than for the current year. Expensive work, ridding the country of nips and night caps.

Hence the Taxes.

A German lass stood at a steamship pier, weeping. "Why do you grieve, Fraulein?" "Because my lover has sailed, and I fear that before he returns someone else may propose to me and I may accept!"—Satire.

For Holding Face in Water.

To enable a person to keep his face immersed in water for several minutes, as for facial massage, a Washington man has invented a clip to close the nostrils and a rubber tube to admit air through the mouth.

If a man empties his purse into his head no man can take it from him—Franklin.

It Must Not Be Again
Today we call across the ocean wide
And look into the souls of nations
We're glad to be honored and with pride
We all say it shall not be again.

The battle fields blossom with the flowers,
The haunted gardens shall be filled with grain,
And sunbeams fall where once the April showers,
Fell upon the soldiers that were slain.

Today we pray us all the nations must
And fold our hands as we look to God in prayer,
For truth and honor lie with the just,
And our hearts are sad for the soldiers lying there.

There is no honor that comes with a thousand people slain,
There is no call from God that says it must be done.

Though we honor all the soldier boys
—they don't want war again—
But peace that conquers nations and makes them all as one.

—Emma Haydon,
Station A,
Portsmouth, O.

Different Altogether

Shortleigh: "I tell you, old chap, marriage changes a man completely. Why, I'm a different man altogether since I married."

Longleigh: "I'm glad to hear that. Perhaps you will settle that little L. O. U. I've held against you for a year or more."

Shortleigh: "Oh dear, no. I couldn't think of getting another fellow's bills."

Different Kind of Criticism

"Arthur," said a young artist to a friend, "do you see that lady and gentleman who are looking at my picture and talking in such low, earnest tones?"

"Yes," replied the friend, "I wish you would saunter by carelessly and find out what they are saying. It looks like business."

"She is telling him down for staring out into last night," said the friend returning.

Proving It

"Smith is a fire wire."
"I know it. He touched me this morning for twenty dollars and I was shocked."

Consolation

Patsy Doonan was taken up on the charge of stealing a watch. His employer was called as a witness to character, and said that he had always found the accused honest and upright. Unfortunately there was evidence to the contrary with regard to the case at issue, and Patsy was convicted and sent to prison, to the great distress of his wife, who left the court weeping bitterly. A neighbor, seeking to comfort her, said:

"Now, Mary, don't take on so. Just think what a good character Mr. Byrne gave your man. Sure, we'd never have known what a fine fellow Patsy was if he hadn't stolen that watch."—Pittsburgh Sun.

Breaking It Gently

"Nigger, prepare to meet your Maker!"

"Huh. You ain't talkin' to me, boy. I've been to 40 funerals, an' I ain't fed up yet."

"Yeah, an' if you don't quit foolin' around me you're goin' to go forty."

"Fast, an' you're goin' to be powerful prominent in dat ceremony wid-out knowin' anything about it."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Albert Bentley, absconding cashier of the Alfalfa Bank, first attracted public notice by keeping company with a girl that was not half good enough for him. Profely our school teachers don't get anything like what they earn, but they couldn't look any peachier on $75,000 a month.

WHEN A FELLER NEEDS A FRIEND — BY BRIGGS

Copyright, N. Y. Tribune, Inc.

Over The Top On High

"Yes," said the timid passenger to the aviator, "I understand I'm to sit still and not be afraid and all that. But tell me, in case something happens and we start to fall, what do I do?"

"Aw, that's easy," said the bird-man. "Just grab anything we're passing and hang on tight."—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

Wise Jottings

When honey talks the cream of the conversation is rich.
A man usually puts his best foot forward, but not so with a toad.

Rich widows are the most desirable second-hand articles on the market.
People who promise you big things usually spoil it by insuring a big "if."

To the youth in love whose salary is $9 a week an ice cream sign looks like a nightmare.
The man who makes trouble between two women gets more enjoyment out of it than they do.

Love is sometimes blind and sometimes only a blud.
The promising young man may be all right, but a paying one is better.

What to Give Him

A newly appointed judge had a "bootlegger" brought into his court and he was in doubt as to how much he should give him. He telephoned to one of his older colleagues and the following conversation took place:

"How much do you think I ought to give him?" asked the young judge.

"Not more than $6 a quart, and get a couple of bottles for me," said the old judge.—Pittsburgh Sun.

Truth Teller

"Is your husband on a fixed salary?"
"Yes—but it's not fixed entirely to our liking."—Buffalo Express.

False Alarm

"Good morning" to Mr. Cassidy. An' is the likely looking young feller in yer third floor room a member of the church?"

"Naw, Mrs. Haggerty, I'm sorry to say he ain't. He's just an unconfirmed roomer."

Mosquito Plague in Alaska.
Alaskan mosquitoes do not act as carriers of malaria and yellow fever as do those of the United States and tropics, but they are very vicious. They literally fill the air. In one sweep of an insect collecting net about his head, Dr. Aldrich was able to capture 110 mosquitoes by actual count.
